

NEW FUROR COMING? — When poles like these sprouted in the middle of San Rafael's widened Third Street two and a half years ago, citizens raised such a hue and cry that they eventually were replaced by metal ones. These new poles are only two feet from the old ones—but soon will be in the middle of Second Street (left) when it is widened to include what has been called West End Avenue (right). The pole in foreground is new; that beyond it is an existing one and will be removed.

Red Hitchhikers On U.S. Planes?

SAIGON (UPI) — The U. S. Air Force today was investigating reports that 160 vacationing Viet Cong troops hitched rides on American planes from an isolated airstrip into the big air base at Da Nang.

Well - informed Air Force sources said the incident occurred some months ago but was only recently brought to the attention of Air Force authorities in Saigon. Security regulations have been improved since then.

An Air Force spokesman termed the report "ridiculous" when questioned about the alleged airlift. His first reaction was, "It's impossible."

But he promised to look into the report before flatly denying that it could have taken place.

The Air Force sources said the 160 Viet Cong, dressed in green, field-type uniforms similar to those worn by the Vietnamese army, boarded U.S. Air Force C123 transports shuttling between Tam Ky Town, the capital of Quang Tinh Province, and Da Nang air base 385 miles northeast of Saigon.

Because Air Force crews were accustomed at the time to giving lifts to hitchhikers throughout Viet Nam, no one among the planes' crewmen objected when the orderly, uniformed troops asked for rides to Da Nang.

The troops were ferried to Da Nang aboard at least five different C123's that took off from Tam Ky that day.

They were discovered to be Viet Cong only after an Air Force man checked with Vietnamese military authorities about the troop lift.

A Vietnamese inquiry into the incident concluded that the troops were uniformed Viet Cong soldiers who were taking leave and wanted to see the bright lights of Da Nang, the Air Force sources said.

LBJ Moves On Steel Strike, Names Two Special Envoys

Parleys' Deadline Tuesday

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI)—President Johnson today ordered two special federal mediators into the stalemated steel contract negotiations. He told them to explore every possibilty of heading off a strike now set for Tuesday night.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and a veteran labor negotiator, and Undersecretary of Commerce Leroy Collins, one of Johnson's trouble - shooters, were selected for the special mediation mission and planned to leave Washington at once for Pittsburgh where negotiations are in progress.

Morse and Collins were scheduled to leave the White House south grounds by helicopter between 2 and 3 p.m., EDT, today for Andrews Air Force Base, switching there to an Air Force jet for a fast flight to the Steel City.

William E. Simkin, chief of the Federal Mediation Service, already is on the scene in Pittsburgh, but as of last night he did not detect appreciable progress toward an agreement between the major steel companies and the United Steelworkers union.

Before announcing the Morse-Collins mission, the President, operating from his Texas ranch home, was on the tele-

Eight-Day 'Go' Accompanied By Burst Of Verse

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Jubilant astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad today got the go-ahead for a full eight-day flight and an on-time splashdown in the Atlantic Sunday despite weather and fuel problems.

"We're pressing on," crowed Conrad as they soared onward to the sound of music piped up from mission control.

The official "Go" was for a full 121 orbits with splashdown about 10:28 a.m. EDT Sunday in the western Atlantic Ocean off the Bahamas.

Flight Director Christopher Columbus Kraft said there still might be a change that would cut that short by one orbit, bringing them down at the end of the 120th orbit — about 90 minutes short of the full eight days.

The weather was a major factor. Tropical storm Betsy was brewing near Barbados, more than 1,000 miles from the target area.

The astronauts got the "go" as they soared into their 106th orbit at 8:57 a.m. EDT to the tune of music from the movie "Cat Ballou."

The astronauts were jubilant.

PRISON ART PROVES POPULAR

A new policy of accepting no checks proved no handicap to sales today at the 11th annual San Quentin Prison arts and crafts show, where 500 visitors paid out $2,300 in cash within an hour and 10 minutes after the doors opened. A line of 200 persons was there before the start of the show, which will continue until 8 p.m. today. Last year's show brought more than 8,000 visitors, who bought $10,000 worth of inmate art works. Prison officials adopted the cash-only policy when buyers' checks bounced at an earlier show.

County Committee Facelifting Sought

County Administrator Alan Bruce will recommend to the board of supervisors Tuesday that the county's local government coordinating committee and airport advisory committee be dissolved, that the citizens advisory committee to community services project not be extended beyond its June 30 termination date, and that several other committees be revamped.

His recommendations are in a report asked by the board of supervisors last May. The board wanted the report to make sure that duties of committees and commissions are clearly defined and that there is no overlapping of responsibility.

Bruce recommends that the citizens advisory committee on development of Marin County be given more limited responsibility. The committee is required by law in connection with Marin City redevelopment. Bruce suggests that it be advisory to the Marin County Redevelopment Agency.

The committee has recently gone into general fields of land use and planning in Marin.

Bruce says the local government coordinating committee should be dissolved because its functions are being carried out by the Local Agency Formation Commission.

He says that the airport advisory committee should be dissolved and the board should not create an airport commission.

"Without derogation of any individual members, the present committee has not been particularly useful," Bruce concludes. A commission with greater authority would be contrary to the board's reluctance to delegate the making of decisions on the airport, he says.

Bruce says the county fair board, presently interlocked with the Art and Garden Center board, should be dissolved when the fair moves to the Civic Center grounds in 1968. A new fair group should then be created and should be tied in closely with a proposed auditorium board.

Use of the fair pavilion and the auditorium will be on a year-around basis and not just five days out of the year.

Bruce recommends against a formal library commission but says that a "friends of the

City Merges Two Streets Into Just One

By ALAN CUNNINGHAM

Two San Rafael streets which side by side, divided only by a row of power poles, are now becoming one as part of the city's one-way street changeover.

Those poles, however, are not going to disappear.

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. crews this week began erecting new, taller wooden poles just two feet from the old ones—in what now will be the center of Second Street, instead of the separation between Second and West End Avenue.

Before the job is done, San Rafael officials and the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. may well hear a loud cry of protest, as they did when a similar row of wooden poles was put up in the center of Third Street next to the Montecito Shopping Center when that street was widened early in 1963.

The Third Street poles were described as ugly, a view shared by at least one planning commissioner and then-Mayor John F. McInnis. The complaints led to PG&E taking the wooden poles down, replacing them with streamlined metal poles carrying only three wires. All other lines — including cables of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.—were put underground.

Chances of the same thing happening on Second Street, however, were described as non-ex-

Blaze Destroys Aircraft, Shop At County Airport

Three single-engine planes and a repair hangar at the Marin County Airport were destroyed yesterday by a fast-moving fire set off by sparks from a welder's torch.

A fourth aircraft, a German sail plane which was first in a line of six planes outside the hangar, was partly burned. (See picture page 3.)

There was no official report on damage, but estimates ran at about $25,000.

The fire started when Jim Rusch of 230 Villa Avenue, San Rafael, operator of the repair hangar, was welding a tail section on one of the two planes inside the hangar and the fabric siding caught fire.

Rusch and his shop helper tried to quell the fire with hand extinguishers, but it flared out of control.

Airport personnel moved some of the outside planes to safety and firemen from the Novato Fire District put out the blaze before it spread.

Twenty-five district firemen handling four fire engines responded to the call to the airport north of Novato at 5:26 p.m.

During the fire, they pumped salt water from a nearby slough off the Petaluma River to douse the flames.

The repair hangar, a frame building with aluminum siding, buckled from the heat.

Mechanics Strike Partly Resolved

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—About 1,500 automobile mechanics are back on the job following separately negotiated temporary contracts in the two month old San Francisco mechanics' strike.

A permanent contract has not been worked out for the returning mechanics, however, nor for 2,500 fellow union members who remain out.

San Rafael Challenges County On Proposal To Hike Span Toll

The City of San Rafael yesterday challenged a suggestion by the Marin County supervisors that commuters should help finance the county transit district through a seven cent raise in Golden Gate Bridge commute tolls.

The supervisors urged the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District to raise the commute fee from 13 to 20 cents per crossing with the expected extra revenue of $630,000 reverting to the transit district.

San Rafael city councilmen opposed this request through a letter written by City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen, and read by bridge directors as they met yesterday in Ukiah. It contended that any money needed to finance studies on improving bus service should be taken from bus travelers, not motorists.

The letter also reminded bridge directors that the supervisors only represent one-third of the county's population, while the cities represent two-thirds. They urged the cities be consulted before such a hike is approved.

Bridge director Thomas D. Hardcastle of Novato told his colleagues the San Rafael council "had been piqued from the beginning that cities weren't included in transit district representation."

He pointed out that Gov. Edmund G. Brown had signed a bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, last month, giving the cities two rep-

Brown Hands Kent A Chore —Seen As Candidacy Clue

Roger Kent of Kentfield, Northern California chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, will resign to take a regional chairmanship of the Democratic Co-ordinating Committee, Gov. Edmund G. Brown said yesterday.

Kent, of 200 Woodland Road, Kentfield, whose term as northern chairman of the state central committee would have run for another year, will submit his resignation to the executive committee of the central committee when it meets in San Francisco Sept. 18.

Political analysts immediately saw Kent's move as a step to aid Brown's yet unannounced candidacy for another term. Kent has held his present post since 1954.

An exchange of letters between Kent and Brown released yesterday quotes the Governor as stressing the importance of "1966 and continuing the fine record of our Democratic administration . . . The important first step is organizing properly and once again I am asking you

NOW WHO CAN RECAPTURE THE TOUCAN?

The South American toucan —the big beaked bird which has been plaguing Mrs. Rollie E. Barton of 26 Forbes Avenue, San Rafael, has been claimed, but not necessarily caught.

Mrs. Barton said that after yesterday's story in the Inpendent-Journal a young man named Norman Hudson of 319 G Street — "practically right around the corner from me" — came by to claim the noisy bird.

She said Hudson tried to catch the bird last night but failed.

"He told me he would come back early this morning with some hamburger to entice the bird into his cage," Mrs. Barton said. "I haven't seen him around this morning, but then I haven't heard the bird either."

NATCHEZ BOMBING—Police inspect booby-trapped car.

Bomb Injures Dixie Rights Leader

NATCHEZ, Miss. (UPI)—Sheriff Odell Anders said today he has many suspects in this Ku Klux Klan stronghold for the assassination attempt on Negro leader George Metcalfe, whose booby-trapped car was destroyed by a bomb while he sat in it.

Metcalfe, 50, regarded as the "father" of the Natchez civil rights movement and local head of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), was hospitalized in serious condition. Parts of his car were blown 200 feet in the air, yesterday.

An angry crowd of more than 1,000 Negroes gathered in the Negro section last night and hurled catcalls and invectives at patroling police cars, but no violence resulted.

Mayor John Nosser termed the explosion a "cowardly attack" and offered a $2,000 reward for information in the incident. Nosser said he later received three identical telephone calls telling him:

"We got Metcalfe today and you're next."

LBJ Keeps Eye On Steel Talks

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—Steel wage negotiations and the Gemini flight contributed a quota of work today to President Johnson's birthday weekend on his ranch.

Aides said Johnson is keeping in close touch with Washington by telephone on a wide variety of public business. He is making a point especially of keeping posted on the key labor negotiations and the astronauts' efforts to keep going despite equipment difficulties, they said.

Delayed first by weather, then by an accumulation of business, Johnson did not get to spend his full birthday yesterday at his favorite relaxing spot—the LBJ Ranch near here.

He arrived late yesterday, but still in time for some boating on the lake which bears his name and for dinner at the ranch with his family and a few close friends.

Bus-Truck Collision Kills 13

VINTON, La. (AP)—A Greyhound bus collided head-on with a trailer truck carrying heavy timbers late Friday night near this southwest Louisiana town.

At least 12 persons were killed. Another 27 were injured, many critically, and hospitalized at four towns in Texas and Louisiana.

State troopers from Texas and Louisiana said the front of the bus was sheared off. Some of the heavy timbers rammed through the cab of the truck and then passed completely through the bus.

Bus driver Jeff Blankenship of Houston died five hours after the accident. He had first been hospitalized at Orange, Tex., and then transferred to St. Elizabeth's at Beaumont, where he died. He suffered a fractured skull.

The truck driver, identified as Henry C. Gregory, 35, of Houston, was also killed. His truck was owned by Al Woods, Limited, of Houston.

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Parliament moved closer to a confidence vote on Premier Elias Tsirimokos today, and it appeared that his week-old government would fall. Tsirimokos could count on only 134 votes in the 300-seat House—17 short of a majority. The vote could come today or Monday.

Aquanauts Finally Set For Adventure

LA JOLLA (UPI)—Astronaut Scott Carpenter and three other aquanauts were scheduled today to descend 205 feet to the submerged Sealab 2 in the initial manned phase of a 45-day test of man's ability to survive underwater.

Carpenter and the trio will wear SCUBA (self - contained underwater breathing apparatus) during the six minute descent. They will enter the 200-ton, 57 - foot long steel Sealab from a hole under the cylinder.

Six other men will descend by diving bell, three at a time.

The Sealab was dropped earlier to a ledge in Scripps Canyon about one - half mile off shore. Heavy sea swells Friday delayed the descent of the men and were partially responsible for postponing from Thursday night until Friday the connecting of power cables to the cylinder.

On the 16th day a porpoise named Tuffy will be used with a second team of aquanauts to see if he can assist divers in returning to the cylinder.

At that time Carpenter and the others will be outside the Sealab much of the time making experiments and testing their reactions to the water.

Included in the tests will be an attempt to set up the first underwater weather station and to salvage a sunken navy fighter plane.

Bakersfield Has Race Riot Scare

BAKERSFIELD (UPI)— Violence flared in the Negro district here this morning when a crowd of 400 Negroes converged on a white policeman making a drunk arrest.

The police department—bolstered by sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen — made 10 arrests before the bottle-throwing melee was halted. Dogs also aided the lawmen.

Police said there were no serious injuries.

A car was burned and bottles thrown by angry Negroes struck cars and shattered grocery store windows.

"I wouldn't call it exactly a riot," a police department spokesman said. About 25 persons in the crowd "were the real troublemakers," he said.

Between 40 and 50 highway patrolmen, sheriff's deputies and policemen blocked off Lakeview Ave., where the violence occurred. All vehicles were stopped at roadblocks at both ends of the street.

The violence broke out at 12:30 a.m., police said, and lasted an hour and a half. There was no gunfire.

Chicken Pox Doesn't Help Save Girl Leukemia Victim

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — A grieving young mother who tried to prolong her leukemia-stricken daughter's life by exposing her to chicken pox was at the bedside when the youngster's life slipped away yesterday.

Doctors had given 4-year-old Joy Evans less than a month to live when her mother, Mrs. Sharon Evans, decided Aug. 1 to take a risk to gain time.

"When I read somewhere that a few terminal leukemia cases seem to have been arrested by chicken pox, I decided it was worth a calculated risk," Mrs. Evans said.

Doctors warned her that it was a big chance — that Joy might not survive additional disease in her weakened condition. She had been a leukemia patient since January.

Mrs. Evans took Joy to the home of a 3-year-old boy who was infected and he and Joy played together and drank from the same cup.

But the brown-eyed youngster didn't catch chicken pox and her condition grew steadily worse.

Funeral services will be held Monday.

Nuns Ask For More Authority

DENVER (UPI)— Representatives of 180,000 American Roman Catholic nuns unanimously approved a resolution yesterday to have a say in Vatican decisions which bind the male-run church.

The resolution was passed by the Conference of Major Superiors of Women at the end of a five-day meeting at Loretto Heights College in Denver.

The conference represents the nuns of the United States.

Ex-Boxer Eddie Machen In Trouble Again: Guns

VALLEJO, Calif. (UPI) — Former heavyweight boxing star Eddie Machen today faced charges of carrying concealed weapons. Conviction, under California law, would be a felony offense in view of Machen's ex-convict status.

The concealed weapons charges were brought on two counts in Vallejo Municipal Court yesterday. Machen was not in court when the charges were brought, but Solano County District Attorney E. Glynn Stanley said a warrant may be issued for the boxer's arrest.

Machen served three years in a California prison for robbery in 1952. As an ex-convict, he is prohibited from carrying a weapon, especially a concealed one.

Stanley said Machen was stopped by the California Highway Patrol Aug. 18 following a report by a motorist that Machen had stopped him on the road and threatened his life.

Officers found a pistol in the glove compartment of his pickup truck and a rifle in the cab. He was released after a talk.

The 33-year-old Machen, a once high-ranked contender for the heavyweight title, staged a comeback attempt in 1962 and won seven fights. He has been out of the ring since Ernie Terrell beat him in a World Boxing Association match as part of a round-robin to select a champion replacement for Cassius Clay, who is not recognized as champion by the WBA.

Police Thwart Suicide Jump

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A 24-year-old man who threatened to jump from the 14-story ledge of a downtown building last night was pulled to safety by an alert policeman.

The man, identified as Robert Harris, address unknown, chain-smoked cigarettes for 50 minutes while Patrolman Steve Runyon sat at arm's length talking to him.

Suddenly the officer tapped Harris on the leg to distract him, grabbed him around the chest and wrestled him to safety.

He talked with Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz and Commerce Secretary John Connor in addition to Morse and Collins.

A White House statement described the assignment of the Oregon senator and Collins, former Democratic governor of Florida, as "special mediators on a fact-finding mission in connection with the negotiations (in Pittsburgh) between management and labor in the steel industry."

"The President has asked Senator Morse and Governor Collins to isolate the issues between the parties and to see what steps can be taken to bring them together," the statement said.

Rusk Listening For Peace Hints

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk is tuned in for any "key signal" that would show Communist interest in a peaceful settlement in Viet Nam.

"Thus far my own antennae have not picked up this key signal, but the antennae are very much alert," Rusk told a news conference yesterday.

The secretary of state issued his public bid for a Red peace overture amid a bustle of backstage activity, ranging from the United Nations to Moscow, by third parties reportedly seeking to get peace talks going.

Woman Driver Hurt

Nikki Lynn Hoff, 21, of 19 Vendola Drive, San Rafael, was treated for bruises and scrapes at Kaiser Hospital in San Francisco today after she drove her car into the rear of a stalled car, belonging to Frank W. Woods of San Francisco, on Highway 101's Waldo Grade shortly before midnight.

Marin City Set Blazes Flare Again

There were four new brush fires in the hills above Marin City yesterday afternoon, believed to be deliberately set.

Two fires broke out almost simultaneously at 3:04 p.m. on each side of the Cole Drive fire road, and burned a total of about an acre.

While firemen were fighting these blazes, two other fires broke out about 600 yards away and about 100 yards apart. These burned a total of about three-quarters of an acre.

Marin County Fire Chief Louis Bloom said he believes they were deliberately set.

The four blazes broke out just a day after a brush fire burned 12 acres near Highway 101 and Shoreline Highway, and two days after a two-acre grass fire in the same area, north of Marin City.

After the Thursday blaze Bloom said both the earlier fires were deliberately set. He questioned four juveniles seen at both fires.

Teen-Agers Cited On Alcohol Outing

Sheriff's deputies cited three 17-year-old San Rafael boys with possession of alcoholic beverages last night after they stopped them in a car on Margarita Drive, just outside San Rafael city limits.

Deputies said they found beer and wine in the car. They cited the boys and notified their parents.

Driver Fined $150

Gerald Harlin, 34, of 51 Porteous Avenue, Fairfax, was fined $150 yesterday in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving. He was arrested by Fairfax police last July 27.

LONE RANGER'S HORSE HAS HOME

Long-time Lone Ranger fans from Michigan to Colorado became alarmed at reports that Mrs. Brace Beemer of Detroit, widow of the man who played the Ranger, was going to give away his horse, the Silver of "Hi Ho" fame. As a Denver radio station began a campaign to bring the horse to the Denver Zoo, Mrs. Beemer explained that the famed stallion's 16-year-old look-alike son would go to the Detroit Children's Zoo while his 27-year-old father would stay on at a farm near her home. resentatives to sit with the supervisors on the transit district board.

The council's letter also said the county should leave operation of the bus system to private enterprise. If Greyhound Lines can not make it pay, the letters said, the transit district cannot do so either.

"I don't think the transit district expects to run buses any more cheaply than Greyhound," Hardcastle said. "Its prime purpose is to make buses so convenient and comfortable that they will attract commuters from autos to buses and thus relieve traffic congestion."

Bridge directors took no action on the toll fees, but agreed to give the supervisors' suggestion further consideration.

The directors also turned down a request by bridge painters for a seven hour day and $9.40 extra per day for working on the bridge towers. Instead they granted a 25 cent hourly pay raise from $4.47 to $4.72 and agreed to pay painters working on the towers an additional $2 a day.

The co-ordinating committee is the campaign organization for state Democratic gubernatorial candidates.

Kent's change in jobs also may be seen as a step towards mending the breach between Brown and State Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh.

Kent is expected to be replaced by Robert Coate, a San Francisco investment executive who would be acceptable to all elements of the party, according to Brown's executive secretary, Winslow Christian.

Vacationing in the Hawaiian Islands, Kent is expected to return to Marin Monday.

Prisoner's Burns Found Deliberate

San Quentin prison officials today were investigating the scalding Thursday of a 38-year-old inmate who apparently tried to protect his attacker by saying the burns were self-inflicted.

Prison authorities reported the incident yesterday afternoon after they learned that the victim, Howard Stanton Lewis, was scalded by a fellow inmate, as yet unidentified.

Lewis suffered third degree burns of the forehead, neck and right arm. He was reported in good condition today at the prison hospital. He is serving six-months to 10 years for a grand theft conviction in Los Angeles County.

Lewis was in the west cell block when he was burned, reported Irving O. Ritter, business manager. "At first, he said he did it himself, but we found out it was done by an assailant," Ritter said.

"From Gemini 5, we thank you," said Conrad.

When astronaut James McDivitt gave them the word from the ground, Conrad's voice burst through:

"We're pressing on."

Problems continued. There was a drop in hydrogen fuel supply. But Gemini control said it should be "no problem."

Conrad's wife Jane composed a ditty for the occasion, and astronaut James McDivitt read it to the Gemini 5 crew:

"Twinkle, twinkle Gemini 5,
"How I want you back alive.
"Up above the world so high,
"I saw you today as you went by.
"Twinkle, twinkle Gemini 5,
"Tomorrow you'll take a great big dive.
"Zinging toward the ocean blue,
"I send my love to you."

Orchestras May Swap Dates In Symphony Plan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An ambitious exchange program between the Los Angeles Philharmonic and the San Francisco Symphony orchestras is being considered for next year, the orchestra announced jointly yesterday.

Philip S. Boone, president of the San Francisco Symphony Assn., said both organizations are "enthusiastic about the possibility." He was joined in the announcement by Harry M. Bardt, chairman of the board of the Southern California Symphony Assn. and Zubin Mehta, conductor and musical director of the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

"We would like it to be a part of the regular subscription series for each city," Mehta said. He said the philharmonic was not interested at the moment with such an exchange with any other western city.

Mehta also announced details of the philharmonic's 10-concert tour of the west beginning in Seattle Nov. 8. Other concerts are scheduled in Vancouver, B.C., Nov. 9; Richmond, Nov. 10; Berkeley, Nov. 11; Sacramento, Nov. 12; San Francisco, Nov. 13; Phoenix, Nov. 15-16; and Tucson, Nov. 17-18.

Owner's Return Foils Burglars

John S. Russell of 408 Woodland Avenue, Kentfield, apparently surprised burglars at work in his house when he arrived home at 10:30 p.m. last night, sheriff's deputies said today.

Russell told deputies he entered the house and found the door to his son's bedroom locked. When he unlocked the door, he found the screen to an open window lying on the bed. It had been secure in the window before he left, he reported.

Russell searched his home and could find nothing missing. Deputies said the screen was bent, as though it had been forced open.

Permit May Delay Vote On Synanon

It appeared yesterday that Synanon Foundation would not be able to complete its application for a county building permit in time for Tuesday's meeting of the board of supervisors.

The board, in voting to grant synanon a use permit for the narcotic rehabilitation center at Marshall, said the foundation must show its intent to correct building hazards by applying for a building permit before Tuesday.

County Building Inspector Hans J. Burge, who visited Synanon twice this week, said yesterday there is much that has to be corrected to make the main building safe.

Several interior doors must be removed, three more exits installed and wiring renovated.

"They're not going to get it done by Tuesday," Burge said.

Helpful Neighbor Injured In Fall At Sausalito

A 57-year-old Sausalito man, doing a neighbor a favor, suffered a head injury when he fell 14 feet from the neighbor's roof at 1 p.m. yesterday.

Thomas Burkell of 515 Easterby Street, a plumbing and heating contractor, crossed the street to help out, witnesses said, when he saw C. W. Gilliam of 520 Easterby Street working on his roof.

Burkell was pulling electrical wires through a conduit when they broke, causing him to lose balance and tumble to a concrete driveway.

Sausalito firemen took him to Marin General Hospital, where he was listed in fair condition today.

library" group, self-generated and not appointed, might be encouraged. He also said an ad hoc committee might be formed to study ways of improving library service.

Bruce also recommends a community activity center committee as recommended in the master plan for older adults.

"Regrettably, the concept presented in the master plan report does not seem to have been thought through sufficiently, conflicts with the (Louis) Kuplan report, duplicates the (proposed) auditorium in part, conflicts with the 1961 lease with the Senior Citizens Coordinating Council, and conflicts with the 1963 subsidiary commitment to the YMCA for the same site for a youth activity center," says Bruce's report.

Consultant Kuplan, in 1962, recommended against any central activity center for senior citizens in Marin due to the lack of public transportation and other reasons, Bruce explained.

Much of Bruce's report deals with the personnel commission. He says it should be primarily a grievance body for hearing first complaints from employees. He says it should not deal with salary or personnel policy decisions which have to be made by the board. The staff can best handle these recommendations to the board, Bruce says.

Actually, his recommendations on the commission are in line with its present practices. The commission has met only three times this year.

Viet Cong Toll High In Battle

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Vietnamese ground forces have killed at least 50 Viet Cong in heavy fighting in the Mekong Delta, a U.S. military spokesman said today.

The spokesman described the Vietnamese drive as a "multi-battalion" operation. He said the fighting took place Friday and early today, about 100 miles southwest of Saigon.

Government casualties were described as moderate. Viet Cong casualties were said to include 50 killed, confirmed by body count.

There were reports the Viet Cong toll might go higher if assessments of casualties inflicted by air strikes are confirmed.

Heavy air strikes supported the government troops.

The search and destroy operation began at 8 a.m. yesterday the spokesman said, in the seven canals region about 20 miles west of Can Tho.

The Vietnamese forces, ferried by helicopter, were said to have made heavy contact immediately with an unknown number of Viet Cong.

One U.S. Army helicopter was downed by what was believed to have been enemy groundfire, the spokesman said. Two of the four-man crew were wounded and evacuated. Their conditions were described as not serious. The other two were rescued unharmed.

Bottarini refused to give the grounds for the protest, saying only that they are legal ones.

Marjorie Killian Marries In Novato

Marjorie Ellen Killian of Novato and Richard John Bannish of Westfield, Mass., were united in marriage at the Our Lady of Loretto Church in Novato Saturday.

The Rev. Charles J. Farrell performed the double-ring ceremony as the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Marjorie, the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Joseph O. Killian of Novato, wore a white semi-fitted floor-length gown with an empire bodice outlined with small daisies.

Mrs. Douglas Theis of Costa Mesa, as matron of honor, wore a sheer gown of pale yellow. Three of the bride's sisters, Mary, Margaret and Melanie, all of Novato, served as bridesmaids. They wore gowns of pastel green, pink and blue.

Donald R. Michalek of Westfield served as best man for Richard, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Bannish of Westfield. The bride's three brothers, Joseph, John and James Killian served as ushers.

Following a wedding trip to Mexico City, the young couple will make their home in Westfield, where the bridegroom is co-owner of the Bannish Lumber Co.

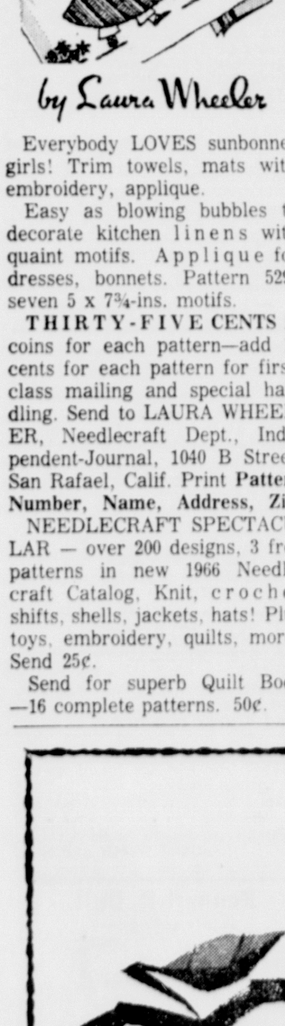

The bride attended high school in Paris, France, and Mt. Vernon, Va. She received her degree at George Washington University and her masters degree at Smith College in June. She is also the sister of Sister Josefita in Dallas, Tex. Her grandmother is Mrs. James A. O'Connor of Los Angeles.

Richard is a Harvard graduate in biochemistry. He is the brother of Harold Bannish of Westfield and Dorothy Bannish of New York City.

A special guest at the wedding was the 91-year-old great great aunt of the bride, Mrs. Charles H. Shiels of San Francisco.

SEW SIMPLE

Garments Of Terry Towels Require A Flat Feld Seam

By EUNICE FARMER

I've heard and read so much about clothes being made out of those beautiful towels, but not one word has been mentioned about finishing the seams. Please tell us how they should be finished.

MRS. G. Z.

DEAR MRS. G. Z.:

The best seam finishing for terry cloth (toweling) is a flat feld seam. It provides a neat finish and prevents raveling and flaking. It often is easier to make this type of seam if you allow an extra ⅛ inch to the width of the seam when cutting. In other words, the seams would be ¾ inch wide. However, this is not necessary.

Sew a plain seam, right sides together. Press the seams to one side. The side seams should be pressed toward the back, the armhole seams toward the neck. After pressing, trim the under seam allowance to about ¼ inch. Turn under the upper seam edge and baste over the trimmed seam edge. Top stitch on the sewing machine, close to the upper seam edge. However, this should be the same distance from the original seam so that the two rows of stitching will look even. Press when stitching is completed.

When I made a silk print, lined dress for myself, I found the jewel neckline didn't hold its shape, even though I made it just like the pattern told me. Does it need interfacing? If so, do I have to rip the entire neckline open to put this in?

MRS. G. G. H.

DEAR MRS. G. G. H.:

To fix it properly, you would have to rip the lining off. The patterns must generalize to apply to any fabric you might use. I always have my students cut interfacing for the neckline immediately and baste it to the wrong side of their material before applying the facing. The average woman is not proficient enough to handle the cut garment without stretching it out of shape. Interfacing always will make a professional finish with no danger of stretching.

Add an extra season's wear to your daughter's summer dresses by putting sleeves on them. Remove thef acings of the armholes, cut sleeves of the same fabric and stitch them in. In a couple of hours you will have salvaged a good dress that would be too small by the next summer. It's these little savings that make sewing so rewarding.

MRS. W. W. CLARK,
ST. LOUIS, MO.

MRS. A. S. SAYS: Often your children's coats and jackets from last year will fit except for the sleeve length. If the sleeves are too short, you can buy knitted cuffs in a matching or contrasting color. They give a snug fit at the wrist often making them more satisfactory than the original sleeve.

Can an A-line skirt be cut from the pattern of a straight skirt? If so, how? I have enjoyed the drafting tips you have shown us.

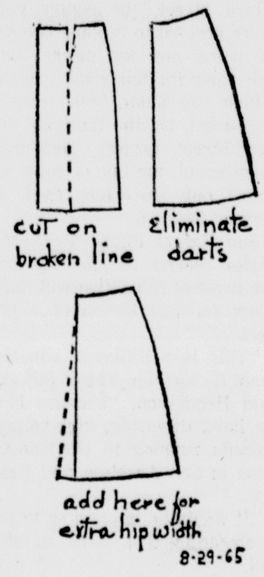

MRS. F. K,

REAR MRS. F. K.:

This is a rather simple change. With a yard stick, mark a line parallel with the center front and back from the end of the dart to the hem of the pattern. Cut the pattern on this line. Also cut out the dart.

Bring the two edges of the dart together so they just meet and fasten with pressure tape. You will notice that the pattern below the dart is now separated. This will give you the A-line you are looking for.

This pattern will fit smoothly over the hips. If you are hippy and desire more flare, this will be added to the center front and back by extending a mark 2 inches wide at the hem and decreasing to nothing at the waistline. (See sketch).

Sleeves seem to be a major sewing bugaboo and yet, you need a well-set sleeve for a truly professional look. Perfect sleeves are guaranteed every time if you follow the step-by-step instructions in my leaflet, "All About Sleeves." For your copy send 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Sew Simple in care of the Independent-Journal.

Woman Driver Now Proposes A Safety Suit

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Most motorists aren't suited for driving, says Mrs. Frieda Baugh.

She proposes to do something about it, with a driving suit she designed.

Mrs. Baugh, a Dayton mother, contends that seat belts aren't enough to protect drivers.

Drivers — and passengers — should be firmly protected by a special suit, the 35-year-old Mrs. Baugh contends. She has patented a design for just such a suit.

It would be attached to the car seat and a driver or passenger would snap himself into it. It would have a helmet to protect the head, too.

Because it would envelop the body, there would be no danger of injury from straps cutting into the body during a sudden shock caused by the impact of a collision.

She thinks the suit could be made of some sort of tough plastic.

Mrs. Baugh, who is separated from her husband, grants that she hasn't solved all the problems.

Such a suit might be very warm, but she says, "Cars should be air conditioned anyhow." An unsolved question is what to do about two-door cars, in which the back of the front seat tilts forward.

Mrs. Baugh, who has a 5-year-old son, originally conceived her suit as a baby carrier.

Newlyweds To Reside In Texas

Susannah Louise Stafford and Ralph Stephen Davis Jr. were united in marriage at the Our Lady of Loretto Church in Novato on Saturday.

Susannah, the daughter of Mrs. Charles Dougherty Stafford and the late Dr. Stafford, was given in marriage by her brother, Charles Michael Stafford, as Rev. Alan S. Armstrong performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white imported Swiss organdy with mimosa lace on the modified empire bodice, with an A-line skirt with full chapel train.

Patricia Basehart of Novato was maid of honor and Janice Cobb of Riverside and Foncine Grant of Novato were bridesmaids. They wore floor length yellow crepe dresses. Junior bridesmaids, Jane Lubeck of Lafayette, cousin of the bride and Jennifer Rose of Alameda wore white crepe gowns.

The bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Davis, of Portsmouth, O., was attended by his brother, Charles Michael Davis. Ushers were Lt. Victor Grazier and Lt. Jerry Wilkowski of Mather Air Force Base, and Timothy Davis, a brother of the bridegroom.

The wedding reception was held at Hamilton Air Force Base Officers' Club. The couple went on a wedding trip to Carmel.

Susannah was graduated from Novato High School, College of Marin and attended Colorado Women's College in Denver. She will continue her studies at Texas Technicological College this fall.

Ralph was graduated from Notre Dame High School and was a 1965 graduate of the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo. He will enter pilot training at Lubbock, Tex., where the couple will make their home.

The bridegroom has nine brothers and sisters in Portsmouth.

Honesty's Best Rule For Beauty

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — "No makeup in the world can substitute for a good night's sleep."

That is rule number one in a new publication on cosmetics, hair, diet and dress—one that operates on the honesty's the best policy approach to such matters.

Take a close, hard look at the "unvarnished you," says the booklet.

"DON'T EXPECT a girdle to cancel out weeks of over-eating any more than your cosmetics can camouflage the effects of several sleepless nights. Both should be thought of as beauty helpers, not magicians.

"Forget about bringing out your good points and minimizing your bad ones. Your best features speak for themselves. The trick is to turn problems into beauty potentials . . .

"There is no perfect facial shape. It's nice to be born with oval face, but most of the world's beauties have not been so blessed."

THE BOOKLET, "Mirror-Mate," is the joint effort of a foundation manufacturer and a cosmetics expert, Syd Simons, of Chicago, and will be free in lingerie and foundation departments of stores across the country.

From its makeup section come other observations: "In selecting cosmetics and hair style, consider height, weight and activity. A bubble coif might be a smash at a dance, but it's less than cool behind college or career desk, and it's absolutely out if you are very short, very tall, very heavy . . .

"BE SCRUPULOUSLY clean about all makeup aids. Keep powder puffs immaculate, wash comb and brush weekly, don't lend your lipstick . . .

"Never put new makeup over an old, tired layer. If you make up at mid-day away from home, carry the same shades you picked in the morning.

"Lipstick and eye shadow should be selected to complement your costume or a special accessory, not your own eye or skin color.

"IF YOUR SKIN is normal or dry always use a liquid makeup base that matches the shade of your skin. If you feel you must give your complexion a lighter or darker tone, never go more than one shade in either direction.

"When applying makeup base blend it in around the chin and jaw line on to the neck." Leave no tell-tale makeup line.

Public Servants' Attitude Can Invite New Industry

EVERYONE WHO PAYS any attention to local government problems in Marin will agree that we need to "broaden the tax base."

This is why we seek to attract industry (including the visitor industry) to our county.

Light manufacturing plants like Fairchild, Trailorboat and Koch pay sizable tax bills without requiring additional costly government services. Their presence broadens the tax base, spreads the tax load, relieves the overburdened homeowner at least to some degree.

Our county government quite properly allocates some taxpayers' money to efforts to attract industry.

Both the Marin Development Association and the Marin Visitors Bureau receive county funds to supplement what they receive in private contributions.

This is as it should be. Our tax base needs broadening. The efforts of these organizations deserve support, both public and private.

BUT MONEY IS NOT the whole answer when it comes to attracting industry to Marin.

Industry wants land in sufficient area and at reasonable prices.

Our existing Industrial Park subdivisions do a good job of providing sites for relatively small operations.

But when larger amounts of land are needed, there are problems. The price of raw land in Marin is not cheap. Installing utilities, streets and sewers is costly.

MARIN IS LOSING interested industries because of this situation. Only recently, a nationally known concern (some of whose chief executives live in Marin) passed up our county in favor of the East Bay as the site for a new research center to be constructed soon.

This loss is a blow to Marin. It is costly. It is not a unique case, as the records of the Marin Industrial Development Assn. will show.

THE DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION and the Novato Chamber of Commerce have discussed one possible solution. It is the idea of setting up some kind of foundation which could acquire and hold sizable acreages suitable for ultimate industrial use. The foundation would get the acreages properly zoned and arrange for the availability of sewers and other services and utilities.

The foundation would perform its functions on a non-profit, non-speculative basis—enabling it to offer land to industry at reasonable, non-profiteering prices.

This idea obviously has merit. It is to be hoped that the Novato Chamber and the Development Association succeed in implementing it.

If they do, all of the problems of attracting industry to Marin will even then NOT be solved.

THERE STILL IS THE problem of "climate" (and the word is NOT used here to mean our weather).

The "climate," in the sense of the attitude of many local government officials and employees, is not such as to make new industry feel entirely welcome.

When a person representing a potential new industry approaches the planning staff or the building inspection office, he can be met in one of three ways.

The person who receives him can display genuine interest in trying to help the potential newcomer achieve what he wants to achieve within existing regulations. This would involve helpful, constructive suggestions made in good disposition.

Or, the public servant who receives the potential newcomer can display a negative attitude, raising one obstacle after another, as the newcomer explains what he hopes to do.

In between is the third possible reception, indifference. By expression, word and deed, the public servant can convey to the potential newcomer the message that "we couldn't care less" about his problems and plans.

The second and third receptions constitute a "bum climate."

ALL TOO MANY INTERESTED persons have received the "bum" treatment over the years.

It doesn't make sense to spend taxpayers' money trying to attract industry only to have a handful of public job holders offset the expenditures.

A little orientation and training in some of our public offices could help as much as or more than the taxpayers' money that is being spent.

Perhaps we need to think of making incentive bonus payments to employees in the planning and building inspection offices when they help "land" a new industry for Marin.

—Jack Craemer

WITNESS REFUSES HELP TO CRASH VICTIMS

After their station wagon plunged down an embankment in Herkimer, N.Y., a 32-year-old woman dragged her husband and five small children out of the car just before it burst into flames.

Then she struggled up the steep slope to the highway in search of assistance.

She hurried towards a motorist who had stopped, gotten out of his car and stood on the side of the road observing the wreckage below. "Help me!" she pleaded with him.

"I'm sorry, I don't want to get involved," the man said, as he got into his car and drove away.

Other motorists, however, soon appeared and volunteered to drive the entire family to a nearby hospital for emergency treatment.

It is a human failing to dodge involvement, even when others are in dire need. But the Lord Himself impressed on us that our very salvation depends on how courageously we aid our fellow human beings who are in trouble.

"How can he who does not love his brother, whom he sees, love God, whom he does not see?" (I John 4:20)

Teach me to go to the aid of those in distress, O Jesus, not to avoid them.

Estes Apologizes To Mayor Carrow

Editor, Independent-Journal:

If you see fit not to print all this letter, please print one underlined line. If you can't do that, please bill me for a one line ad in your personals column.

Mayor Carrow: I apologize. Tom Estes.

I appreciate the lesson the Novato Advance Editor taught me (again) last night. "Never judge anything too hastily."

Last week I unfairly impugned the motives of our Mayor, and for that I am truly sorry.

On another topic—Mr. Kiker's letter in your own paper—It may well be that the "Great Society" is defunct—but not because Mr. Kiker says so, and not for the reasons he gives. It grieves me to see so many people with so little faith in our democratic society that they must hold a gun to another's head to force him to "confess" that it is good. Thanks to the foresight of our founding fathers, Mr. Kiker, Birchers, KKKers, AND the Rev. Mr. Martin Luther King can be heard— and the people may judge to whom they will listen.

Ryskind's View Held Repugnant

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The Aug. 24 offering of Morrie Ryskind was, for me, wholly repugnant. How easy it is to downgrade and undermine the work of sympathetic and dedicated people. The term "bleeding hearts" dismisses them from serious consideration.

In commenting on the Los Angeles riots, this very critical article offers no constructive suggestions except a statement that, "the cause lies in the climate they have been nurturing the past few years." The inference here is that in recent past the situation was acceptable.

It is deplorable that the recent outbreak of violance in Los Angeles should occur. It is equally deplorable that government agencies are not moved to action until a riot takes place.

The fact that the violence occured in a defined geographical area implies segregation, economic and special. Mr. Ryskind's attitude seems typical of a large segment of the white community, that is, an impatience with the Negroes' desire to achieve true equality. What this means to the individual Negro is that "I must be patient, live a meaningless life because my life doesn't count and perhaps in future generations my offspring may have an equal chance if they don't become uppity."

A few days ago, a Negro acquaintance told me of his grammar school days; his teachers told him that he could become president simply because he was born in the United States!!!

Railroad Defended On White Elephant

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Does Mr. Leach seriously suggest that, "we," no doubt meaning the people of Marin County, so far forget our respect for other people's rights and property as would seem implicit in his letter on N.W.P. and the tunnel? He states that S.P. and N.W.P. show a marked disinterest in Marin. So what has Marin done to merit the railroads' continuing interest?

N.W.P. had a real thing going for them in Marin County until we built the Golden Gate Bridge. This was progress, but it pulled the rug out from under the bulk of the railroad's revenue, leaving them a legacy of miles of trackage to remove and countless suits to resolve the questions of ownership of the rights of way, reversionary rights, etc., some of which are still unresolved. This left the main line and the Corte Madera-Sausalito link as the railroad's sole operation. When, through senseless juvenile vandalism, the Puerto Suello tunnel was burned, making the line inoperable, did the people of Marin make any effort to assist the railroad to restore service? They not only did not, but censured the railroad for maintaining an attractive nuisance and made arbitrary demands that N.W.P. restore to service a great big white elephant.

So, let's either put up or shut up. Either demonstrate to N.W.P.-S.P., that we value their services and make it economically feasible for them to continue their operations, or quietly allow them to abandon said operation.

War Of White Papers Just Like Replay Of Earlier Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — The main character is different but the play's the same. This time it's President Johnson getting it. In the past 15 years the other presidents got it, too, each in turn.

House Republicans just changed the script around this week when they issued a 33-page "white paper" criticizing the handling of Viet Nam by Johnson and the late President John F. Kennedy.

NO DOUBT this, and whatever else they can put together, will serve the outnumbered House Republicans as a campaign document in the 1966 congressional election. They've been looking for issues and they'll need them.

In 1950, two months after the Korean War began and less than three months before that year's congressional election, the Republican National Committee produced a 55-page indictment of former President Harry S. Truman.

It cited the loss of China, the Communist attack on Korea, and Truman's about-face on Formosa as policy failures. The Republicans lost the election.

Just as with Truman, but not as intensely, the Republicans climbed on Kennedy's back. And in the 1962 congressional election year the GOP National Committee fired at him from its publication, "Battle Line."

He was charged with being "less than candid" about American involvement in Viet Nam. Kennedy replied he was as "frank" as possible, consistent with national security. As usual, the Republicans lost.

Now this latest Republican document, besides broad swipes at Kennedy, accuses Johnson, as it accused Kennedy three years ago, of a "lack of candor" on Viet Nam.

If this seems a coincidence there was a greater one. Two, in fact.

IN THE VERY week the Republicans chose to put out their "white paper" on Johnson, he chose to put out a 27-page document aimed at justifying his handling of Viet Nam. Perhaps it wasn't such a coincidence.

The Republicans accused the Johnson-Kennedy administrations of inconsistency. Johnson cited statements by Eisenhower, Kennedy and himself, all promising to help Viet Nam against communism.

But, almost as if someone had tipped him the Republicans were going to charge him with lacking candor, Johnson in his preface to the 27 pages declared he was very candid:

"It is essential that our people seek understanding and that our leaders speak with candor." Then, to prove his candor, he said what followed was a "clear definition of America's role in Viet Nam."

It's doubtful many people will read either Johnson's document or the Republicans'. The Republicans firmly say they back Johnson's policy in Viet Nam.

But then they complain—and even give the impression of being puzzled — that, while Johnson and Kennedy sent combat troops into Viet Nam, Eisenhower never did. But the answer is simple enough.

All three presidents felt a South Viet Nam free of Communist conquest was essential to American interests. But the Communists didn't begin their war until near the end of Eisenhower's presidency.

SO DURING his administration there wasn't much need to send Americans into action. The Communists didn't start to overrun South Viet Nam until Kennedy was in the White House.

BARKER ON CHINA

Hong Kong Possibly Faces Watts' Woes

By GEORGE BARKER

Realizing that many people, supposedly "in the know," will say this whole idea is ridiculous,, I venture to predict that someday in the not too far distant future Hong Kong will erupt in violence not disimilar to that which rocked Watts.

Some people who know only the polite veneer of the servants, the shop-clerks, the hotel help and such will be somewhat shocked to learn that underneath these bland, smiling exteriors is often a seething mass of repressed hatred. I have lived among these poor people, eaten their kind of food, drunk their cheap rice wine, married among them, laughed and cried with them, learned a little of their language, until I can think a little as they do. What I see is a volatile mixture.

The average Hong Kongite is frightfully poor. Many are unemployed because there aren't enough jobs to go around. They have many children. Children are like money in the bank—they will grow and support you in your old age.

The average wage for a factory worker runs about HK$200 a month or US$35. Rice and meat cost about the same as in the U. S., but vegetables are a good deal less expensive, as are eggs. The best protein buy is dow-foo, the bland bean cake.

Rent will take more than half a worker's wages and will get him a part of a room with a number of other families. His home and that of his family will consist of a seven to ten foot square cubicle, partitioned off from the rest by drapes, old wood and cardboard. His family will wear simple garmets of thin material. They will share a common kitchen and bathroom with up to 50 or 60 other people.

LIVING UNDER these conditions, it is only natural for hostility to develop. Some of it is directed at Chinese in his immediate environment; especially common are fights over kitchen privileges. Though quick-tempered, the Cantonese also keep a lot bottled up.

He seeks a scape-goat and, inevitably, it is his British rulers. They and the Anglicized Chinese, who compromise a sort of elite Island Establishment, are the special targets of venom. Many of them occupy government posts and are required to make decisions adversely affecting the lives of certain segments of the population.

Hawkers, for example, must pay a $15 license fee. They are hemmed in by all sorts of regulations. The people resent police enforcement of these laws.

The average Hong Kongite doesn't want British rule, but he doesn't want to join Red China and he sees the impossibiltiy of joining Taiwan. The Colony is supposedly self-governing through elections to an Urban Council, but the joker is that the tough English exam which is required of voters automatically disenfranchises more than 99 per cent of the Chinese.

The distaste for the British, whom most unbiased observers will admit have done a good job in Hong Kong but suffer the stigma of trying to govern people of a different race and culture, is shown in several ways. At the movies when "God Save The Queen" is played at the end of the show and a picture of Elizabeth II is flashed upon the screen, large numbers of Chinese ostentatiously stride out.

THEY'VE HAD riots before, in about 1948 and again in '56. They were triggered by very minor incidents, had an anti-foreign flavor, and were marked by mob frenzy, killing, burning, looting. It can happen again, only worse. All that is needed is an incident.

State Rabies From Wild Animals Reported On Increase

Cycle Still Not At Peak In California

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The incidence of animal rabies has been on the increase in California for the past 10 years and the State Department of Public Health fears that the peak has not been reached as yet.

Incidence of the disease in wildlife increased from a low of 98 cases in 1960 to 280 cases reported in 1964. The department said the number of cases of rabies in wildlife reported during the last five years, 1960-64, was 1,028, as compared to 704 cases during the 1955-69 period, suggesting "that the sylvatic rabies cycle has not yet reached a peak."

The pattern of incidence of the disease has changed considerably, with the dog being removed as the villain and skunks, bats and foxes being the main carriers.

The department said that, 10 years ago, the 4,083 dog rabies cases accounted for 56 per cent of the animal rabies in the U.S. However, in 1964, dogs accounted for less than 10 per cent of the total cases, while 75 per cent was found in wildlife.

Nationwide, skunks and foxes accounted for more than 82 per cent of all animal rabies, while the other 18 per cent was found in 19 different types of wildlife.

There have been few deaths from rabies reported. A 10-year-old Minnesota boy died after being bitten by a skunk. There also were two reports of servicemen or their families dying of rabies while on duty in foreign countries.

In California, as of May 31, 38 of the 58 counties were under official declaration as rabies areas.

During the first six months of 1965, a total of 127 cases have been reported, including 74 in skunks, 25 in bats, and 14 in cattle. Others included: dogs, eight; horses and bobcats, two each, and opossom and foxes, one each.

The three highest counties were Napa, with 17; Los Angeles, with 16, and Sonoma, with 10. In both Napa and Los Angeles counties, 13 of the cases involved skunks.

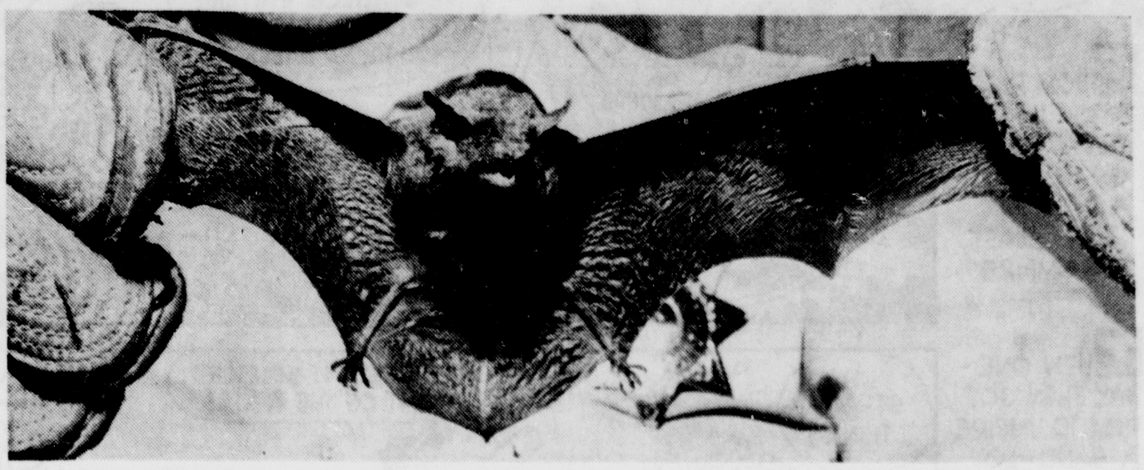

Detailed records of the department show that, at least in the case of rabid bats, one of the problems is that they often are found by pets or children and they play with the bats. A number of other cases of rabid bats involved bats flying in the daytime.

Typical of these reports:

"Bats observed jumping around, biting itself. Children caught bat and played with it"; "picked up by child wearing gloves"; "dog tried to catch bat and was bitten"; cats observed playing with bat in yard"; "cat caught and killed bat in living room of house"; "sick bat picked up by three college boys"; and "described as attacking ducks and chickens."

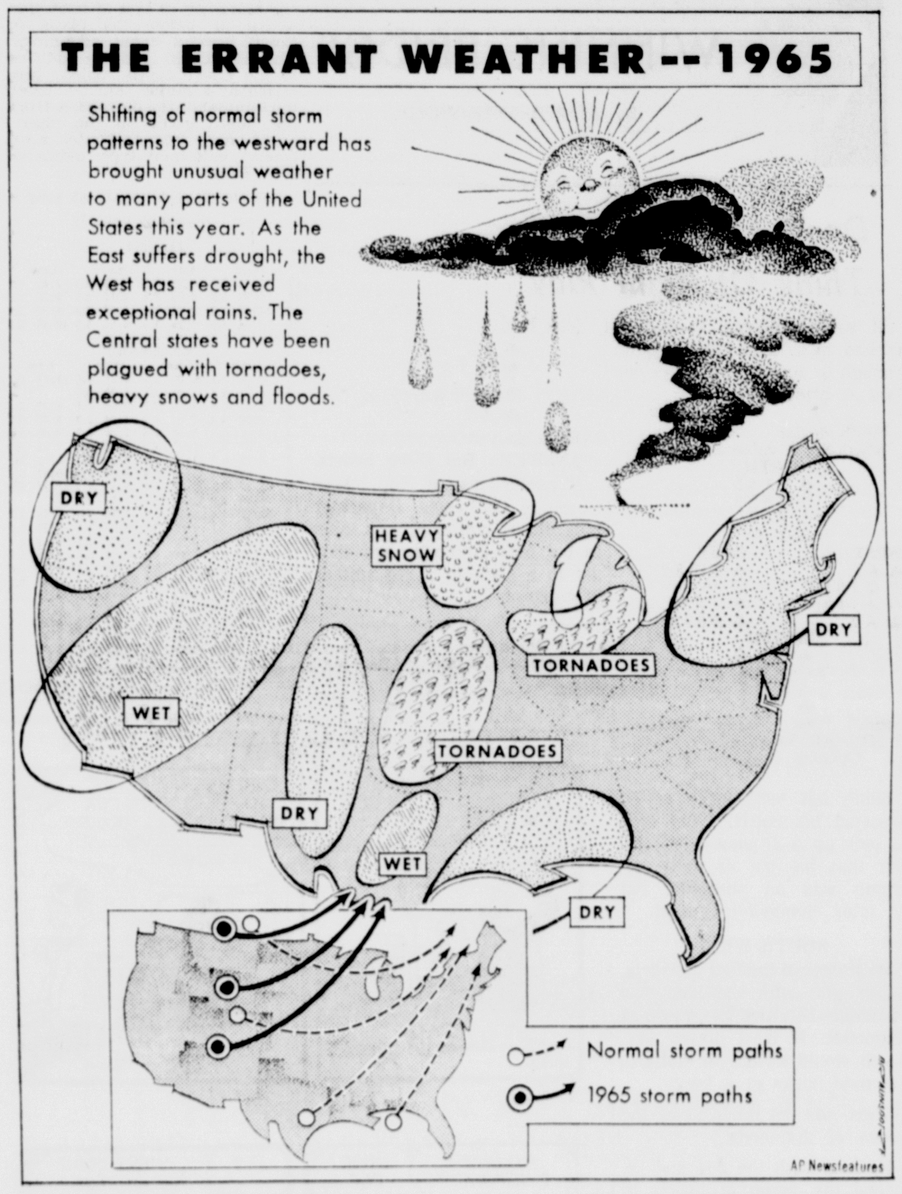

A number of rabid bats attemped to enter houses and several other cases involved bats in schools, on playgrounds, or at swimming pools.

CUTE? INTERESTING? — These little animals may be cute and interesting but they also can carry deadly rabies. The State Public Health Department has warned that the incidence of rabies has gone up and the peak has not yet been reached. Officials added that while rabid dogs formerly were the main source of the disease, now wild animals are spreading it. This includes foxes and those pictured here: skunks (left) and bats.

Another Drought In 200 Years

By ARDEN COOPER

WASHINGTON (AP)—If it's any comfort to water-short New Yorkers, a drought like the current one is not likely to recur until their great grandchildren are drawing Sociel Serurity.

Weather Bureau officials estimates that the northeastern United States shouldn't experience another four-year run of dryness for 200 years. This calculation is based on the law of averages.

The same basic changes in storm tracks, or paths, that steered water away from the northeast this year also brought record cold and snow to Minnesota (resulting in floods on the upper Mississippi River) and a short-lived dought from Texas to Colorado.

A late, wet spring in the west, a relatively ry, cool spell in the eastern half of the nation and dozens of tornadoes in the plains and mid-western states were associated with the unusual weather pattern.

In general, the storm tracks were 500 miles or more to the northwest of the normal pattern. Precipitation lines which normally run through New England stretched through the upper Great Lakes and into Canada.

Thirty-seven tornadoes—tying the record for one day—ravaged communities in Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Ohio on Palm Sunday, April 11, killing 271 persons. It was the second largest death toll ever recorded from one day's tornadoes.

Forty-one tornadoes, a record, were sighted on both May 8 and May 25 and 105 twisters appeared in a three-day period, May 25-27—but most of them were in open country.

In the first seven months of the year, 755 tornadoes were reported compared to 437 in the corresponding 1964 period.

Most of the northeastern drought may be described as being beneath the surface. Many crops continue to flourish. But the water table below ground and the reservoirs which supply major cities have fallen to dangerously low levels.

Last winterf, the drought area — which stretched from the western and southern borders of Pennsylvania northeastward through Maine— received rainfall only 15 per cent below normal. But it was not enough to replenish supplies after four years of below-average rainfall.

Some northeastern areas experienced their driest May on record. In addition, aboveaverage temperatures contributed to the loss of water by evaporation.

There were less serious droughts in parts of Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, New Mexico and Texas and Florida this spring. Rains in April and may relieved these situations.

Texas was particularly blessed with numerous rainstorms in a wide belt in the center of the state in May. However, by early August the entire state had become somewhat parched again by six weeks of below-average rainfall.

Oregon and Washington had only about one-third the normal rainfall in March while a rare string of 11 straight rainy days occurred in the Los Angeles area.

The severity of a drought is measured by a Weather Bureau index which normally runs from 1 to 4, with a measurement of 4 described as a "severe drought." Most areas of New England now are rated 4 or higher and large areas of New York state are rated as high as 6.

Tumbling Astronauts Grab Records

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Tumbling lazily through space amid the strains of soft music, Gemini 5 astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles (Pete) Conrad rewrote the record book this week.

Fuel and electric power problems arose as their scheduled eight-day mission approached its end, sending their capsule into gentle somersaults as it whirled around the earth.

Despite the discomfort of the carnival-like tumbling ride in their cramped vehicle, the astrotwins retained their jubilance and continued to banter with ground control.

President Johnson, meanwhile, kicked off a manned military space craft program for national defense.

Johnson gave the U.S. Air Force the go-ahead for a $1.5 billion Manned Orbiting Laboratory (MOL) project. He stressed they would carry no offensive weapons.

Answering a 6,000 word House Republican white paper charging him with "watering down" U.S. goals in Viet Nam, President Johnson warned Communist North Viet Nam against any "illusion" the American people are not united on Viet Nam policy.

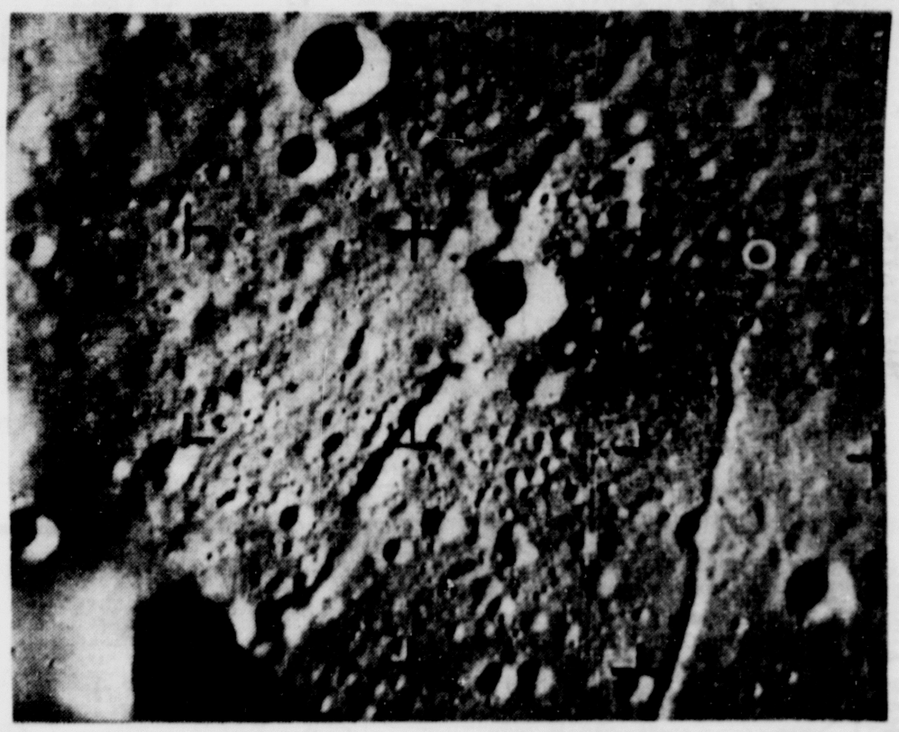

The President said the issues of war and peace in Viet Nam are far greater than partisan differences and that leaders of both parties are giving him "excellent cooperation." He especially praised former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, whom he called a "tower of strength."

Around The World, Around The Clock

Washington—The President issued an executive order making any man married after midnight, Aug. 26, eligible for the draft.

Hong Kong—A military transport flying vacationing U.S. Marines back to combat duty in South Viet Nam crashed and exploded in Hong Kong harbor, killing 58 of the 71 persons aboard.

Moscow—President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic arrived for five days of talks, including discussion of efforts toward a Viet Nam cease-fire.

NOT GOOD ENOUGH—This is how the moon looked through the camera eye of Ranger 9 last March 24 as the probe was 35 miles and 23.5 seconds from the moon's surface. Man is not satisfied with this seemingly faraway glance. Projects are now in the making to make a landing on the moon with instruments and later with men for a thorough examination. But the Gemini series holds sway now and the moon projects lag behind. (UPI Telephoto)

Gemini Holds Attention, But Moon Project Lags And Cost Balloons

By GENE BYLINSKY
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — While the Gemini 5 holds center stage, another space project vital to landing men on the moon has slipped months behind schedule and soared in cost.

The project is Surveyor, designed to softly land on the moon unmanned spacecraft equipped with television cameras and instruments to test the moon's surface.

Close-up photographs by crash-landing Ranger spacecraft failed to shed any light on whether the moon's crust is covered with a layer of dust that might engulf a manned ship attempting to land or whether the surface is hard enough for a landing.

An indication that dust may present serious problems to landing men on the moon was reported by East German astronomers earlier this year. They said they photographed a large dust cloud above the moon, apparently kicked up by descent retrorockets fired by Russia's Luna spacecraft as it attempted to land. The attempt failed and the craft crashed onto the moon.

The Surveyor delay at least in part is caused by the desire of NASA to avoid similar failures.

Space agency officials have freely acknowledged in the past that they expect failures in Surveyor launches, but they want to reduce the number of potential failures through more stringent testing.

At the same time, costs of the Surveyor program have soared from the original estimate of under $500 million to nearly $750 million.

The House space sciences subcommittee's chairman, Rep. Joseph E. Karth, D-Minn., has expressed continuing concern about the program. This concern is based in part of the fact that the Surveyors are scheduled to be boosted toward the moon by an Atlas-Centaur rocket, which has experienced management and technical problems in the past.

Although NASA officials have said they would consider first Surveyor flights successful even if the craft aren't landed on the moon, even the first test models of the 700-pound craft will be equipped with television cameras and devices that can apply pressure to the moon's surface to test its strength.

Four flights of test vehicles are planned through 1966. Full-fledged spacecraft will be landed on the moon in 1967.

REPLACING CUBA

Italy Reds Are Believed Latin American Pipeline

By DANIEL JAMES
Advance News Service

MEXICO CITY—Evidence has been mounting that the Italian Communist Party has replaced its Cuban counterpart as Moscow's "transmission belt" to Latin America.

The theory is that the Cubans have been clumsy in handling Latin America, having suffered disastrous defeats in several important countries. Moscow has lost confidence in them, the theory continues, and elected to use in their stead the cleverer and more experienced Italian Reds.

A recent issue of the respected magazine specializing in Communist affairs, "Este et Oeste" ("East and West"), published bi-weekly in Caracas, Venezuela, reveals some of the background of the increased Italian Communist activity in the hemisphere.

Perhaps the most significant development since April, when Italian Communist couriers were seized carrying $340,000 into Venezuela, has been the visit of six high Italian Red leaders to Havana. The delegation spent three weeks there during May and June, and was headed by one of Italy's foremost Reds: Mario Alicata.

The Italians arrived in Havana from Prague, and left the Cuban capital in a Soviet plane for Moscow—not touching Rome coming or going. On board the departing plane with them was Sergei A. Mikoyan, son of the Soviet president, Anastas I. Mikoyan, who had been in Cuba ostensibly in connection with some film work.

The Italian Communists conferred with Premier Fidel Castro and other Cuban Red leaders for three days of almost continuous talks, according to reports from Havana. A joint communique was issued, signed by Castro and Alicata. Front-paged in the Havana press, the communique stressed that the Italian Communist Party and Cuba's United Party of the Socialist Revolution (PURS) would work together in supporting "liberation movements" in Latin America.

The Venezuelan minister of interior, Gonzalo Barrios, has said the Italian party had become Russia's "transmission belt" in Latin America. These were his blunt words, uttered on April 10:

"We have proof that the Venezuelan Communists are receiving money from the Soviet Union, which is utilizing the Italian Communist Party as its vehicle."

The Venezuelan official denounced, by name, as the "mastermind" of the "vast conspiracy" the treasurer of the Italian Communist Party, Mario Secchia.

In Italy, meanwhile, members of the Chamber of Deputies and other persons have at various times demanded an investigation of the affair—but nothing happened.

The party suffered some embarrassment at the time, according to reports from Rome, because of damage to the image it had been painstakingly building up of being "just another" democratic Italian party, one which shunned violence and subversion as means of attaining power. It was precisely because of that benign image that the Italian party was chosen.

Red leaders undoubtedly have noted the fact that Venezuela has a big Italian population, most of it acquired since World War II, as has Argentina, and to a lesser extent, Brazil — a potentially favorable factor for an Italian-spearheaded penetration.

Some of the Latin Communist leaders at the Prague meeting suggested a further conference with the Italians, and also the French, for the end of November, 1964. That became the now-famous secret meeting in Havana attended by a score or more of top Latin Communist leaders.

The moon is approaching its first quarter; the morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn; the evening stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

German writer Johann Von Goethe was born on this day in 1749.

On this day in History:

In 1833, the British Parliament banned slavery throughout the empire.

In 1922, a New York realty company paid $100 to sponsor the first radio commercial.

In 1941, Japan sent a note to the United States saying the Japanese were only interested in peace.

In 1963, more than 200,000 demonstrators staged an orderly protest march on Washington against segregation.

A thought for the day — German dictator Adolf Hitler said: "Mankind has grown strong in eternal struggles and it will only perish through eternal peace."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Don't Think Of Luck, Think Of Right Play

It isn't necessary to believe in bad luck. Bad play is quite enough to account for all of our loss at bridge.

Opening lead — ♡ 5

South felt very lucky as he assorted his cards. What luck to pick up a 27-point hand! He felt that his bid of three notrump was an underbid, but he later changed his mind.

SOUTH WINS

West opened the five of hearts. South won with the king and cunningly returned the queen of diamonds. If West played low, South would switch to clubs to get nine tricks in a hurry.

West was not taken in by the queen of diamonds.

He won with the ace and returned the queen of hearts to drive out the ace.

TAKES ACE

When South got around to leading clubs, West took the ace of clubs and the rest of his hearts to defeat the contract.

South complained loud and long about his bad luck. The hearts might have broken 4-2, or West might have held only one ace instead of two.

If the East-West hands had been exchanged the opening lead would have been in some other suit, and South would have made his contract.

GOOD LUCK

Never a word about the good luck of being dealt a 27-point hand. Never a word about the bad play that had enabled the opponents to defeat him.

South should refuse the first heart trick. If East can continue hearts, the suit is no threat; South can afford to lose two hearts and two aces.

If East cannot continue hearts, a shift to any other suit gives South time to drive out the two missing aces.

Partner opens with 2 NT (22 to 24 points), and the next player passes. You hold:

♠ 6 3
♥ Q J 8 5 4
♦ A 10 9 5
♣ A 7.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three hearts. If partner raises, you intend to get to six hearts. If partner bids three notrump, you plan to bid four diamonds and then get to a slam in a red suit or in notrump.

Simple Yard Idea

Sometimes a simple installation will change the character of a yard. A settee with a high back serves as a lounging area and also as a separator between use areas.

Douglas fir is a good wood for these installations because it is easily worked, can be bought at any lumber yard and lasts well in the open.

FOUR TOP JOBS OPEN IN COUNTY

Planning Directorship In Limelight; Elections, Industry, Park Aides Sought

By RICHARD LYTTLE

Four executive positions with Marin County are open, but the vacancy of planning director is probably attracting the most attention. That vacancy, however, will likely be the last to be filled.

Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen, concerned that the position might be filled by someone oriented too much toward the conservation faction, has written a memo to the planning commission saying he hopes any committees named to select the new man will be "well balanced committees."

Planning commission chairman Felix M. Warburg said the method of screening and interviewing candidates has not been decided. Interviews could be by a committee or by the entire commission, he said.

National advertising for the post began this week with ads going into various planning trade journals.

The job will pay $18,000 a year. The new man will replace B. D. Dobbs, whose resignation becomes effective Jan. 1, 1966.

Oral interviews have been scheduled next Friday on seven applicants for the job of assistant county clerk for elections. This job carries a salary range of $829 to $1,008 per month. The new position was created in an effort to prevent the confusion that arose during school elections last April.

Responsibility for running school elections has since been transferred from the county schools office to the county clerk's election department.

Deadline for applications for the job of assistant county administrator for business development is Oct. 31. The $13,000 a year job was created by the board of supervisors in an attempt to get more for money spent with chambers of commerce and other booster groups for promotion of industry and tourism.

Job description for the post of parks and recreation director is expected to be before supervisors Tuesday. The description is being revised slightly and the salary may be raised from its present $1,008 a month maximum, County Administrator Alan Bruce said.

The new man is needed to replace Kelvin J. Nelson, whose resignation takes effect Sept. 30.

Bruce is responsible for recommending department head appointments to the board of supervisors, so the chances are that the assistant county clerk for elections will be the only post filled prior to Oct. 18. That is when Bruce is to return from vacation. He will leave for the British Isles Thursday.

CORE Benefit

A benefit will be held for Student Congress of Racial Equality, Marin County, and Marin Committee for Fair Play starting at 6 p.m. today at the home of Juanita Vincent, 320 La Verne Avenue, Mill Valley. Part of the proceeds will be used for Marin City recreation facilities. There will be swimming, food and entertainment.

Jumper Misses Mark, Gets Hit By 2 Trucks

BERLIN (AP) — An East German parachutist, jumping from 3,000 feet, missed the landing field and came down in the middle of a road.

Near the ground he was struck by one truck, bounced off the radiator and was hit by another coming in the opposite direction. The parachutist, identified only as Dieter W., was hospitalized. His injuries reportedly were not critical.

Bumper Burr Harvest Boon For Laboratory

GUYMON, Okla. (AP) — This year's cockleburr bloom crop was excellent, said the president of a laboratory which uses the blooms in medicine for treating allergies.

Cockleburr bloom pickers plucked 1,200 barrels of the crop in three days in the Oklahoma Panhandle, reported Tom R. Stemen of Oklahoma City.

ROTARY OFFICIAL—George Starbird of San Jose, district governor of Rotary International, will address San Rafael Rotarians at their Monday luncheon at Dominic's Restaurant. He will outline the organization's global activities and will be briefed on the local club's plans for the coming year. It is one of 57 clubs in his district.

Terra Linda To Refurbish Pool

The pool at Terra Linda High School will be closed from Monday through Friday for locker room repairs, but will re-open next Saturday for the three-day Labor Day weekend, according to Ronald D. Koller of the San Rafael Recreation Department.

The San Rafael High School pool closed the season last weekend so school workmen could perform annual repairs, Koller said.

While the Terra Linda pool season will end when school starts Sept. 7, he added, it may be re-opened on weekends through September if hot weather continues.

Correct Addresses

Robert Carroll Shake, 22, resides at C Battery, Second Missile Battalion, San Rafael Nike Site, rather than at 355 Canal Street in San Rafael as stated in the Independent-Journal's vital statistics for marriage license applications Thursday. His bride-to-be, Connie Lorrain Mitchell, 21, lives at the Canal Street address.

RADIATION VICTIM

Navy Officer Dying Broke, Unrecognized

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A retired American naval officer, one of the few Americans ever to suffer an overdose of atomic raidation, lies dying at his home in Norfolk. He is broke, heavily in debt and his sacrifice in line of duty is unrecognized by fame or medals.

He is Cmdr. William W. Mitchell, USN, Ret. He is 65, but he looks 85, for he has suffered much since 5:35 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time on July 24, 1946.

That was the hour at which the United States exploded an atomic bomb underwater at Bikini Atoll in the Pacific. The underwater explosion was one of a series of postwar atomic tests.

Some 75 warships and 12 smaller craft took part in the tests. Mitchell was engineer officer aboard the observation ship USS Wharton.

Half an hour after the atomic explosion sent a column of water half a mile wide at the base a mile into the air, the Wharton cruised into ground zero, checking radioactivity and making other scientific measurements.

Then began one of the most bizzare chains of circumstance of the atomic age. First a pump failed in the Wharton's engine room.

The pump failure caused a condenser failure and the engine room filled with steam. The ship went dead in the water, only a few feet from ground zero, and lay dead there for an hour while repairs were made.

The captain ordered the machinist responsible for the pump failure court-martialed for neglect of duty. The machinist had been told to replace the pump but had not done so.

Mitchell was appointed defense counsel for the machinist.

A key piece of evidence in the court-martial was a bronze intake valve. The valve was directly exposed to the sea water during the entire sequence of events, hence it soaked up a tremendous dose of radioactivity from the very water in which the bomb had been exploded.

Since the valve was a piece of defensive evidence, Mitchell took it to his room for safekeeping. He put it under his bed and it stayed there the entire five weeks prior to the court-martial.

In 1946 no one knew much about the hazards of radiation and Mitchell's action by 1946 standards were perfectly logical.

By the time the officers and crew of the Wharton were checked with a Geiger counter in Bremerton, Wash., several weeks later, Mitchell's body made the counter buzz like a rattlesnake.

They checked his blood count but it was still normal. They released him with the suggestion that he have a blood count taken periodically. Then they sent him and his ship to China.

The next year, while he was on duty at Pearl Harbor, he learned his blood count was dropping. By this time medical science had a much better idea of what an overdose of radiation meant. Mitchell was ordered to San Franicsco for treatment.

There he began to suffer sever hemorrhaging. He bled from every opening in his body and through the pores of his skin.

They couldn't X-ray him. His body was so hot that the X-ray film came out black. It would be four years before he would be "cool" enough to be X-rayed successfully.

He was transferred to the Navy's medical research center at Bethesda, Md., where he stayed a year. There he received blood transfusion after blood transfusion as the doctors fought to prevent lukemia.

Finally, in 1949, we was well enough to be released from Bethesda. The Navy gave him a medical discharge.

He settled in Norfolk and took a position as secretary and business manager of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn. On the side he started raising hamsters which he sold to government and private agencies for medical research.

At one time he was raising and selling as many as 40,000 hamsters a year in the backyard of his home.

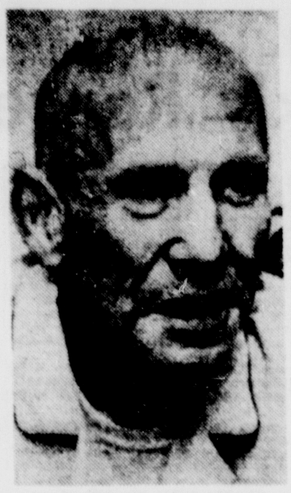

Five years ago his condition began to worsen. In five years his body aged 20 years.

On June 21 of this year he suffered a severe stroke. The doctors say he may die in a day, in a month or in a year.

He had to sell out his hamster business at a loss and he and his wife are now in danger of losing their home to satisfy the debts.

"I wish," said Mrs. Mitchell, "that they would spend some of that foreign aid money to help a man who has truly tried to help his country."

Mitchell has willed his eyes to the blind and his radiation-poisoned body to science.

Child Molesting Charge Reduced

S/Sgt. Paul Lawrence Napier, 47, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to an amended misdemeanor complaint of annoying a child. Judgment is scheduled for 3 p.m. on Sept. 16.

Napier, of 1172 Ransome Drive, Raphael Village, originally was charged with felony child molesting. He was arrested by Novato police June 9.

Library Pact Means More Bookmobile Use

The cooperative agreement between the Marin County and San Rafael libraries, approved by the county board of supervisors this week, will not only mean waiver of non-resident fees in both areas but also an added bookmobile service of the county library.

In the Glenwood area of San Rafael, the county bookmobile will start service Sept. 16 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. This will continue on the first and third Thursdays of each month, County Librarian Virginia Keating said.

Residents in north San Rafael will also be able to use the county bookmobile on its Terra Linda stops. Every Monday it will be at Scotty's Market from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. On the first and third Tuesdays of each month it will be at Hickory Lane and Holly Drive from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Fall Nursing Program Has 31 Enrolled

Two men and 29 women will be members of the first College of Marin registered nurses training class this fall, Shirley Conklin, coordinator of registered nursing education, has announced.

The two-year program will begin Sept. 13 with classes in anatomy, physiology, history, English, psychology, fundamentals of nursing and clinical practice at Marin General and Ross General hospitals.

Students will receive an Associate of Arts degree and will qualify to take state examinations for licensing as registered nurses on completion of the program in June, 1967, Miss Conklin said.

The average age of members of the class is 27, with ages ranging from 17 to 47. All have graduated from high school. Twenty-three of the students have attended college and three hold bachelor's degrees.

Applications are being accepted by the college for entrance in the second program to start in September, 1966.

Fete Is Benefit Of Dystrophy

A neighborhood carnival for the benefit of muscular dystrophy victims will be held at 2010 Mill Road, Novato, at 10 a.m. next Thursday.

The carnival will be in the back yard at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carrier, with their children, Robbie and Robin, serving as ringmasters.

Julie King and Robert King will assist at the carnival which will feature games such as penny pitch, milk bottle drop and sponge toss and a rummage sale.

Pike Attack Sign Of Church Tensions

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

The heresy charges lodged against Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike of San Francisco by 14 Arizona clergymen are a sign of the tensions building up in U.S. churches over attempts to modernize the Christian gospel.

Episcopal church leaders say it is highly improbable that Bishop Pike actually will stand trial on the charges. Canon 56 of the denomination's basic legal code provides a complex, four-stage procedure whereby a bishop may be brought to trial before his peers for "teaching doctrine contrary to that held by this church."

Bishop Pike's critics have yet to clear the first hurdle. To set the heresy machinery in motion, they need the signatures of at least three bishops. So far, they have none.

The Episcopal House of Bishops will hold its regular annual meeting at East Glacier Lake, Mont., Sept. 7-10. Unless the three signatures are obtained by then, the complaint against Bishop Pike will be referred to a committee for private burial.

Soundings indicate that some Episcopal bishops who heartily disapprove of Bishop Pike will refrain from signing the charges because they suspect he would like nothing better than to figure in a heresy trial.

Other bishops won't sign the charges because they don't think Bishop Pipe is guilty of heresy. They may not agree with all of his theological views, but they sympathize with his basic objective.

That objective, in Bishop Pike's words, is to "restate the unchanging gospel in terms which are relevant to our day and meaningful to the people we would have hear it."

"The most formidable roadblock to understanding and acceptance of Christianity," he said recently, "has been erected by the church itself in its refusal to abandon concepts, words, images and myths developed in past centuries when men were operating under different world-views and different philosophical structures."

BISHOP PIKE
Trial unlikely

In his latest book, "A Time for Christian Candor," Bishop Pike cites the doctrine of the Trinity as something contemporary Christianity very well could get along without.

He said the concept of three divine persons—Father, Son, and Holy Spirit united in one "Godhead" — came into Christianity not via the Bible but from the philosophical categories of the fourth and fifth centuries A.D. It baffles and repels modern man, who misses the nuances of the Greek in which the doctrine was formulated and therefore concludes, mistakenly, that Christianity preaches a kind of polytheism.

Bishop Pike contends that nothing essential would be lost and much clarity would be gained if Christians abandoned traditional Trinitarian terminology and simply spoke of God acting as the creator and sustainer of the universe, revealing Himself in the person of Jesus Christ, or dwelling within men as a holy spirit.

His critics also accuse him of heretical views about the virgin birth, the incarnation and the resurrection.

To Bishop Pike, the claim that Jesus was born of a virgin is a myth which has been extremely valuable in conveying the essential truth that God and man were united in his person. He does not think Christians should insist upon its literal historical truth, especially in view of the fact that the earliest Christian writings, the epistles of St. Paul and the gospel of Mark, do not mention it.

As for the doctrine of the incarnation, Bishop Pike affirms with the Nicene Creed that Jesus was at once truly human, having all of the limitations of a mortal man, and at the same time was "very God of very God." Jesus, he says, so emptied Himself of self-centeredness that He became a perfect vehicle for the revelation of God's love.

What offends the bishop's critics is his statement that there is no inherent reason why there could not be another incarnation on another planet or even on this earth, "given the right historical context and given the right man responding aright." Bishop Pike adds his conviction that there has never been anyone like Jesus in human experience, so that the incarnation stands as a unique event—so far.

The bishop speaks of the resurrection as a real, historical event in time and space. But he says that "Christians are free to hold different views as to the precise mode of the resurrection" and that he personally finds most satisfactory St. Paul's description of the risen Christ as having a "physical body."

Bishop Pike's views are similar to those expressed by Anglican Bishop John A. T. Robinson in his book, "Honest To God," which has been stirring controversy in England and America ever since it was published two years ago.

Plaque Marks Church As Historic Landmark

A plaque marking Our Lady of Loretta Catholic Church in Nicasio as an historic landmark will be presented to the pastor of the 98-year-old church during ceremonies at the church tomorrow.

Rev. John G. Connery will receive the plaque from Katie G. Jewett and Walton P. Rego, grand presidents of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West.

Reverend Connery will begin the day of ceremonies with a Ceremonial Mass at 11 a.m.

The church, built at a cost of $3,000 in 1867, was part of the Petaluma parish for many years, but is now included in the Lagunitas parish. It is not the same church as Our Lady of Loretto Catholic Church in Novato.

Mrs. Georgiana Gabb, of Marinita Parlor No. 198 of the Native Daughters, is the chairman of arrangements for the ceremonies which will commence at 1 p.m.

After a welcoming of guests by Lee Brice, past grand president of the Native Daughters, Dr. Peter T. Conmy of Oakland, director of historical research of the Native Sons, will speak on "The History of Our Lady of Loretta Church."

There will be a musical program following the ceremonies.

Buddhists Hoping To Spread Beliefs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Convinced that Buddhism has something to offer Americans in these times of stress, Buddhists will soon establish a cultural center here, the first of its kind in the United States.

The Venerable Vinitha, a Ceylonese monk, has arrived to get the project underway.

"We are concerned with what Buddhism can contribute to world culture, peace and understanding," he told United Press International in an interview. "We want to share it with the American people."

The bhikku (Buddhist priest) said there was a precedent in his mission—the introduction in the United States for the first time of the Theravada tradition of Buddhism, the original teachings of the Buddha, devoid of any rituals and rites.

"Educated and intelligent Americans prefer Theravada," he said. "They like this form since it teaches a way of life which does not believe in the efficacy of rites and ceremonies, which teaches that each man has to work out his own deliverance by his own efforts and that its goal could be reached here and now."

There are about 170,000 Buddhists in the United States, most of them of Japanese and Chinese origin, and about 150 Buddhist temples throughout the country.

"But there isn't a single Theravada Buddhist center," the bhikku said.

The main objective of the center, he said, will be to acquaint the American people with Buddhism.

"Buddhism is not merely a religion," he said. "We want to share its art, its philosophy, its social institutions and its literature with the American people."

The Washington center will provide lectures on Buddhism, art exhibitions and a library.

It will have a shrine room with a statue of the Buddha where individuals can meditate and where religious ceremonies and observances will take place.

Several monks now being trained in Ceylon for missionary work in the west will reside at the center. They will be available for counselling and guidance and also to deliver sermons on Sundays.

Regular classes in Buddhism will be conducted. Those interested will receive instruction in meditation and other forms of worship.

Calendar Marks Jewish Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Striking reproductions in color of paintings on Jewish themes by the well known American artist Yari Levine illustrate the Art Calendar issued by the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods for the year 5726, which will begin at sundown on Sept. 26, 1965.

Among the illustrations is the painting entitled "Exodus," an outstanding example of Mrs. Levine's work in the collection of the Westchester Reform Temple, Scarsdale, N. Y. Her paintings also are in the permanent collection of the House of Living Judaism of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations in New York.

Birthplace Of Christianity Now Center Of New Faith

HAIFA, Israel—AP—This land that saw the beginnings of both Judaism and Christianity also is the world center of a new religion founded in a Moslem country. It is called Baha'i.

There are said to be well over a million Baha'i in nearly 300 countries, territories and possessions — in fact, every country of the world except a few Soviet republics. The largest number is in Iran, where the faith started more than 100 years ago. It is not officially recognized there today.

The religion has appeal, its leaders say, among both the old established nations and the developing ones. Members include American educators, Canadian Eskimos, Japanese businessmen and Indian doctors. Its teachings have been translated into 270 languages and dialects.

A golden-domed shrine set amid gardens on the slopes of Mt. Carmel in Haifa is the world headquarters of the faith.

Beneath the dome lie the remains of "The Bab"—The Gate—the martyr-herald of the faith, who was executed by the Persians in 1850 because of his religious teachings.

Before his death, The Bab predicted a promised one would some day lead the faithful. This right was claimed by the son of a Tehran Cabinet minister, Mirza Husayn Ali, who took the name of Baha'u'Llah—Glory to God.

Baha'u'Llah was exiled to Baghdad, and later was moved to Constantinople — modern Istanbul — and Adrianople before his final imprisonment at Akko in Palestine.

He was still under virtual Turkish house arrest at nearby Bahji when he died in 1892 at the age of 75.

The Baha'i honor and respect all the world's great religions. They believe that God educates mankind through a series of prophets who appear at intervals in man's history: Moses, Zoboaster, Buddha, Christ, Mohammed—and now Baha'u'Llah.

The faith teaches compulsory education, equality of men and women and elimination of all forms of prejudice. The Baha'i find no contradiction between science and religion.

They believe in the eventual unity of mankind and world peace. In time there will be a world order, world economy, one race and one religion under God.

There are 69 national Baha'i assemblies, comprised of local spiritual assemblies in 1,500 centers. The national groups elect the ruling body. The Universal House of Justice is comprised of four Americans, three Iranians, two Britons.

Seven Popes In Office Since Century Began

NEW YORK (UPI) — Seven Popes have reigned during the 20th century, says the Catholic Digest. They are: Leo XIII (1878-1903); Pius X (1903 - 1914); Benedict XV (1914-1922); Pius XI (1922-1939); Pius XII (1939-1958), John XXIII (1958-1962) and Paul VI (1962-).

Caribbean Area Ministry Sought

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Council of Churches is cooperating with the World Council of Churches in a comprehensive five - year program in the Caribbean area.

The goal is to train about 300 Caribbean churchmen so they can conduct a Christian family life ministry in an area where two out of every three children are born out of wedlock.

The National Council's Commission on Marriage and Family Life plans to send three teams of family life experts to the Caribbean to conduct seminars in Barbados, Trinidad and Jamaica.

Tiburon Presbyterians Praised For Teaching

The Christian teacher training program at Westminster Presbyterian Church in Tiburon was praised in an article in the Aug. 15 issue of the denomination's national magazine, Presbyterian Life.

Locke E. Bowan Jr. wrote in the article, Innovations in Christian Teaching, that he found at the Tiburon church "one of the most enthusiastic Christian education councils I have ever encountered."

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

By JIM GILMARTIN
I-J Sports Editor

Tomorrow's 5th Golf Carnevale May Be In Living Color: Purple

The entry list resembles the Sicilian phone directory. To qualify, your name must end in a vowel. You don't push a shot; you poosh it. And the battle song is "Hey, Brother, Pour the Wine."

While this may sound like a setting for the Appalachian Crime Convention, or a scene out of the Untouchables, I'm referring to tomorrow's fifth annual Italian Golf Carnevale at Marin Country Club.

This is the one day of the year the members of the Ignacio club really let down their hair.

If your surname doesn't conform to the mode of the day, the committee will adopt you. For example, ex-major leaguer Art Schallock becomes Schallockini who, with a moniker like that, is liable to wind up as main course at the banquet. Frank Keaton, a committeeman, becomes Keatononi for the day. Disc Jockey Jim Lange is Langi.

They entered me as Gilmanhattan but changed it to Gilmartini because I can't stand Maraschino, who won low net last year. Besides, under the pressure I swallowed the olive.

You get the idea? Of course, there are some entrants who have to sneak in. Like Milt Schwartz, Irv Chapman, Don Collins and Larry Callan. Try to make paisani out of THEM!

OTHERS COME with built-in requirements, like Joe DeMaestri, Dante Pareglio, Guido Farina, Ray Amonini, Frank Sampietro. Sort of wall-to-wall spaghetti.

I know you won't believe this but chairman of the tourney is Paul O'Pizzi. That's his honest-to-goodness name, so he can also head the St. Patrick's Day tourney.

There is more vino poured—and spilled—at this tourney than you can shake the Little Old Winemaker at. By nightfall the beautiful Marin course has the only purple greens this side of Rome.

MONDAY MORNING the eyeballs look like spillage from the freeway department of Rand-McNally. Mama, Mia—the hangovers!

At the end of the day they pass out prizes and some just plain pass out. Awards are for low gross, low net, best costumes, clearest eyeballs and last one under the table.

These guys make Days of Wine and Roses sound like a church picnic. They call this a "handicap" tournament because that's what happens when your wife catches up to you.

AND THE costumes are out of this world. They dress up as everything from gypsies to monks to Italian astronauts to Roman gladiators to Chicago hoods. If Eliot Ness were to walk down the first fairway there'd be a gang war.

One wise guy came dressed as a Pink Elephant and scared hell out of the bartender. Also, sixty-five guys went on the wagon.

ODDS-ON favorites to win the best costume award for the fourth time in five years are the Brothers Nave of Nave Lanes bowling fame.

The year they posed as monks they had a donkey to carry their wine. It was a real ass, not to be confused with the guys who just acted that way. The Naves' animal was the first donkey to be picked up on a 502.

Then there was the time they came as Italian astronauts — specimen—and arrived at the course in a helicopter. Last year they posed as cavemen and rode the back of a huge, papier mache dinosaur. Imagine how many guys went on the wagon after THAT!

IT'S A DEEP, dark secret what the Naves will come as tomorrow. You can expect almost anything.

So, if you want an entertaining day tomorrow, brought to you in living color—primarily purple—I suggest you visit the Italian Golf Carnevale.

Proceeds will go to St. Vincent's School for Boys, Guide Dogs for the Blind and Orphans of Italy. I suggest Alcoholics Anonymous demand equal billing.

Famed Dipsea Race On Tap Tomorrow

By GLENN BECKER

Runners aged 11 to 57 will set off tomorrow at 10 a.m. from Lytton Square in Mill Valley up the 442 steps which mark the first grueling leg of the famed Dipsea Race to Stinson Beach.

It will be the 55th renewal of the popular event, which draws entries from all over Northern California. The team champion for the last five years has been the Marin Athletic Club, which is favored to snap up the prize once again.

Among the entrants, who number above 100, are the handicap winners of the past two years, 1964 champ Greg Sparks and 1963 winner Alan Beardall. Other Marin contestants after the No. 1 spot this year are Wes and Bruce Hildreth and Beardall's brother, Allan.

The race is sponsored by the Mill Valley Junior Chamber of Commerce, under the chairmanship of Bob Bass. He named 11-year-old David Nelson of Vacaville as the youngest runner in the race and Walter Stack, 57, member of the Dolphin Swimming and Rowing Club of San Francisco, as the oldest.

The race will be reported by radio station KTIM (1550 kc.) and Bass also expects television coverage.

John Hassard, first winner of the race in 1905 and 1906, after members of the Olympic Club had started it, will be on hand to award the winner's trophy. He comes down each year from Yuba City to witness the race.

Among the outside entrants given a good chance to win are 1958 National Cross Country champion Les Fono and Olympic runner Uadja Kolombatovic.

They will be shooting at the scratch record for the rugged 6.9 mile course of 47 minutes, 22 seconds, established by Norman Bright back in 1937. Bill Morgan of San Francisco, who Thursday won the 10,000 meter run in record time at the Maccabiah Games in Tel Aviv, Israel, came within seven seconds of this time last year in the closest of many recent near - misses. Bright's mark has proven very elusive and may well survive another assault tomorrow.

A new AAU handicap system which could create some ludicrous situations will be in effect for the first time in the Dipsea. The system awards handicaps strictly on the basis of age, which the AAU evidently feels is the easiest and most reliable standard to use.

It may also be misleading. Many distance runners are at top form after they pass 30. A prime example of this is Pyotr Bolotnikov, the Soviet ace who is well past 30 and yet defeated American Olympic king Bob Schul in the 5,000 meters at the U.S.-Russian track meet in Kiev last month.

The new system awards no handicap to runners 33 or younger; five minutes to those 34-39; 10 minutes to runners 40-44 and 15 minutes to anyone 45 or older. Runners of international stature like Bolotnikov or American veteran Peter McArdle could make a farce of this schedule of handicaps.

TIES GEHRIG — Willie Mays is greeted at home plate by Tito Fuentes after Mays blasted his 40th homer of the season yesterday as the Giants bombed the New York Mets, 9-2. The homer tied Lou Gehrig's lifetime record of 493. (UPI Telephoto)

Mays Ties Gehrig Home Run Record

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays has so many records within reach he doesn't know which one to go after first. But he knows which record he wants eventually. It is Jimmy Foxx' mark of 534 lifetime home runs, most by a right-handed hitter.

Willie moved a little closer to Foxx last night when he contributed a two-run homer to the San Francisco Giants' 9-2 triumph over the New York Mets. The homer moved him into a tie with Lou Gehrig on the all-time list at 493.

A capacity crowd of 56,167, largest ever to see a single game at Shea Stadium, saw the Giants wallop five home runs as they snapped the Mets' three-game winning streak as well as their own four-game losing skein.

Willie McCovey hammered his 31st and 32nd homers, Jim Ray Hart hit his 16th and Len Gabrielson his seventh in support of Warren Spahn.

The 44-year-old southpaw went 6 2-3 innings to gain his second victory as a Giant, sixth of the season and 362nd of his career. Spahn had a shutout until pinch hitter Charlie Smith rapped a two-run homer with two out in the seventh.

It was Mays' home run, however, that drew the biggest applause. The crowd had been informed in advance, via the center field message board, that Willie's next homer would give him 16 for the month of August, tying Ralph Kiner's National League record of 16 home runs in a month.

Willie has four more games in which to match the major league mark of 18 set by Rudy York of the Detroit Tigers.

Informed after the game that the home run made him the first player in National League history to hit 40 for six seasons, Mays looked surprised.

"Is that a fact?" he asked. "I didn't know that. I was aware that I was approaching Kiner's record but the one I really would like is Jimmy Foxx' 534 home runs for a career.

"I think I have a chance for that. Not this year, of course. But if I can stay healthy, I believe I can make it next year."

What about the biggest home run record of them all . . . Babe Ruth's 714 lifetime home runs?

"Are you kidding, man?" asked Willie, his voice rising. "I never even give that a thought. That man was in a league by himself."

Mays, still favoring a painful groin injury sustained in Pittsburgh earlier in the week, started in right field last night, moved back to his customary center field post in the seventh inning, and left the game after the eighth.

"It hurts, a little," he admitted, making light of the matter.

"It's been a tough season," Mays added. "I'm thinking of the race, not myself. When you start thinking of yourself first, you're no good to anybody."

Nichols, Geiberger Are Tied For Lead

AKRON, Ohio, (AP) — Arnold Palmer was sitting in his favorite position today in the $100,000 American Golf Classic waiting for "something to happen," while Jack Nicklaus hoped for a "super round" to get into contention with co-leaders Bobby Nichols and Al Geiberger.

Palmer was tied for third after shooting his second straight par-70 yesterday for a 36-hole total of 140, one stroke behind Nichols and Geiberger. Palmer is noted for his late charges.

"I really had a good start," said Palmer, who birdied two of the first five holes and had a two-under-par 33 for the first nine yesterday.

"Then I had thoughts of grandeur. Maybe something will snap back into place. Or maybe I ought to take putting pills."

Nichols, with a second round 36-34—70 and 139 total, and Geiberger, with his 36-33—69, had no trouble passing first round leaders Johnny Pott and Jim Ferrier. Pott and Ferrier soared to 78s after 68s Thursday.

Through the first 36 holes of the 72-hole tournament, Nichols and Geiberger were the only players to master par on the 7,165-yard Firestone Country Club's rain-dampened fairways swept by gusty winds.

Left-handed hitting Bob Charles had a 35-34—69 to go along with his opening 71 for 140. Jack Rule shot a 34-34—68 to climb into a tie for fifth with Mason Rudolph, who had a 38-33—71 and a 141 total.

Nicklaus, who vowed he would come back and make the cut for the final two rounds after an opening 80, kept his word. He shot a 36-33—69 for a 149, two strokes less than necessary.

"I can still make a run at it," Nicklaus said. "It would take a couple of super rounds of 65 or 66, but it can be done. With a little luck out there today, that 69 could have been a 66."

Among those in serious contention was Canadian Genorge Knudson at 142. Tied at 143 were Peter Thomson, Jack Cupit, Kel Nagle and Gordon Jones. Grouped at 144 were Doug Sanders, Tony Lema, R. H. Sikes and Gardner Dickinson.

WITH 2 SECONDS TO GO

Cardinals Tie 49ers, 17-17

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers are still wondering where St. Louis' blitz comeback came from.

San Francisco's National Football League team held a 17-10 lead right up to the final two seconds of the game with the Cardinals last night in St. Louis.

But a 15-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Charley Johnson to Sonny Randle made it 17-16 and Jim Bakken kicked the extra point to knot the exhibition game.

It was the 49ers third pre-season game. They play another exhibition game next week against the Pittsburgh Steelers in Providence, R.I.

The 49ers missed several scoring opportunities against the Cardinals. In the final quarter the San Franciscans missed a field goal attempt and the Cardinals took over on the 20-yard line.

Johnson piloted the 80-yard drive and hit Joe Childress with a 20-yard pass, Jackie Smith with a 21-yard pass and Bobby Joe Conrad with a 28-yard pass. Then came the toss to Randle with two seconds left in the game.

A 49er touchdown was called back in the second quarter because of a holding penalty. John Brodie had tossed to Dave Parks for a 52-yard touchdown play.

A fumble by John David Crow gave the Cardinals the ball on St. Louis' seven-yard line. And the futile 28-yard field goal attempt in the final quarter doused another scoring possibility.

Brodie, playing all the way, hit Parks for tow touchdown passes. Parks, who gave former 49er defensive back Abe Woodson a fit throughout the game, tallied on a 41-yard pass play the first time San Francisco got the ball.

Parks went across again in the final quarter when Brodie completed on a 25-yard pass play.

Tommy Davis added both extra points for the 49ers and kicked a 47-yard field goal with seconds left in the first half.

A fumble on the 49er 30 set up the first Cardinal score. Larry Wilson recovered and raced to the seven. Johnson tossed to Randle in the end zone.

Larry Stallings intercepted a 49er pass and set up Bakken's 18-yard field goal.

Brodie connected on 11 of 26 passes for 141 yards. Johnson completed 12 of 28 for 150, but the Cardinals gained only 74 yards on the ground.

The 49ers gained 208 yards on the ground.

Track Powers Will Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The warring "men of good will" who run U.S. track and field affairs apparently will meet Tuesday to see whether they can come to peace terms.

Top officials of the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association promised yesterday to meet for the first time in more than two years and try to settle their bitter jurisdictional row and seek a new era of togetherness which would:

—Halt their threatened reprisals against young athletes under their jurisdiction who refuse to respect their boycotting of one another's track meets.

—Concentrate on building U.S. amateur track and field talent on the domestic scene and for international competition.

The promise to meet came from AAU President Clifford H. Buck and NCAA Executive Director Walter Buyers in behalf of President Everett D. Barnes, who had left the city.

Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., said "if they can't get this thing resolved, my inclination is to introduce a resolution expressing the sense of the Senate that the U.S. Olympic Committee should arbitrate the whole thing."

Cannon, in a surprise move, won the promise of a meeting as the last act ending two weeks of Senate Commerce Committee hearings on the dispute.

He asked whether, "as men of good will," the rival presidents would meet and try to solve their own problems without courting tough actions by Congress which Congress was reluctant to take.

Informed sources said the two presidents probably would get together Tuesday, and that Washington seemed a likely place for their talks. No one was predicting that any startling new peace plan actually would result. The best some hoped for was an agreement on issues which might be submitted to arbitration by an outside group, possibly the federally chartered U.S. Olympic Committee.

Cannon said he would not stand for quibbling about what issues should be arbitrated."

Asked what Congress could do if there is a deadlock which would block NCAA-AAU acceptance of arbitration after all, he said:

"Congress chartered the U.S. Olympic Committee. It could charter a new organization to handle these affairs without all this discord. I hope we don't have to go that far."

Commerce Committee Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., has indicated similar opinions.

In yesterday's final hearing Magnuson was asked how arbitration could be compelled if the disputes balked.

"That," he answered, "is where this (Commerce) committee comes in."

Ron Cerrudo Wins Norcal Golf Title

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Long hitting Ron Cerrudo had another in his long string of golf titles today after a lopsided win in the Northern California Amateur championship.

He disposed of Jack Chapman, 7 and 6, yesterday at the Olympic Club for his second straight Northern California title.

Cerrudo, 20, is top man on the San Jose State golf squad and is considered one of the biggest drivers in the game.

Hiller's Wins Softball Game

Keith Schaulis and Ralph Boccabella belted home runs Thursday night to lead Hiller's Menswear past Dill and Sederberg 10-5 in San Rafael Recreation Dept. softball action at Albert Field. Bob Murelli pitched Indian Valley Lumber Co. to a 9-5 win over the Native Sons.

Builders, Merchants In Semi-Pro Crucial

A capacity crowd is expected to pack the Albert Field grandstand in San Rafael tonight to watch Marin County's two semi-pro baseball arch rivals, the Billings-Hutchison Builders and the Mill Valley Merchants, battle for survival in the tightening Bay Area League race.

Game time is 8 o'clock.

Both teams are chasing the Santa Rosa Elks, who lost their first game last week after six wins. The builders are 5-3 and the Merchants 4-3, so both have a good opportunity to challenge the Elks. This is especially so in view of the Elks' schedule, which pits them against B-H twice and the Merchants once.

One thing is sure, though, and that is the sudden-death nature of tonight's game. The loser will have to be content with the opportunity to be a spoiler later on.

Added to the importance of the game in the league race is the nature of the Mill Valley-Builders series, which usually produces excellent baseball. Their first meeting this year was a good example.

It was at Mill Valley July 11. Bob DeRosa was pitching in his first start for B-H in months; through eight innings he held a 1-0 lead in a tight duel with Frank Burch. Then B-H exploded for five runs in the ninth and DeRosa had himself a 6-0 no-hitter.

Since then the Merchants have been hitting hard and often. Builder Manager Joe Anselmo is undecided whether to start DeRosa or Dick Descalso.

Merchant pilot Bob Selna was leaning toward Keith Fraser earlier in the week, but yesterday was also considering giving Burch another shot.

Meanwhile, Santa Rosa takes a whack at the also-ran Pacifica club. Next week Mill Valley gets Pacifica while the Builders and Elks tangle in a home-and-home series, Saturday at Albert Field and Sunday in Santa Rosa. The following week B-H meets Pacifica while the Merchants visit Santa Rosa.

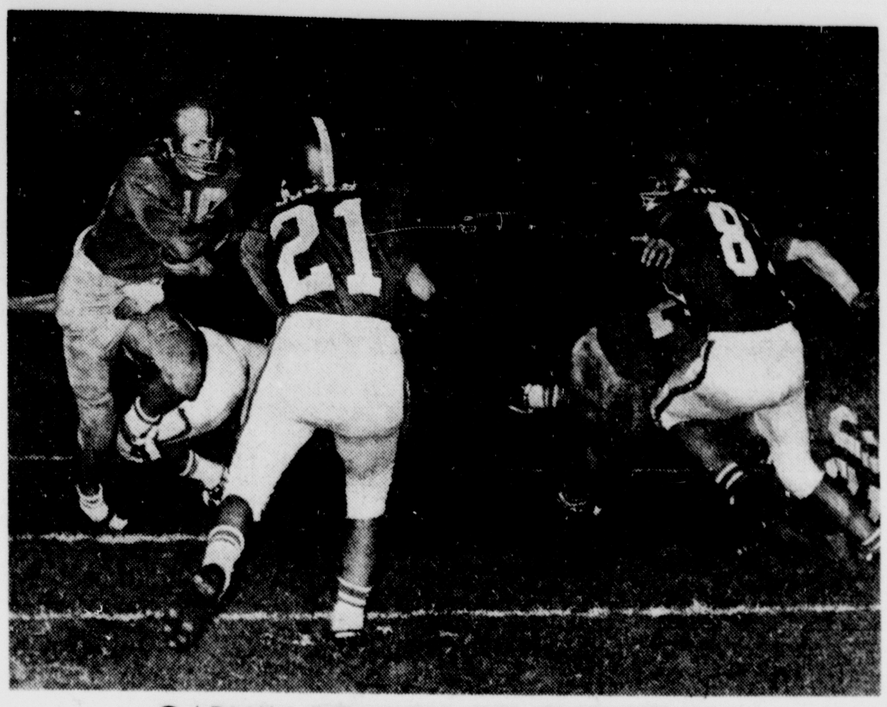

Tonight's probable starting lineups:

Billings-Hutchison: Jess Jacinto, ss; Don Lauters, 3b; Jess Munyon, c; Doug Wilson, lf; Dave Hughes, cf; Jerry Ard, 2b; Dick Spackman, 1b; John Brookman, rf; DeRosa or Descalso, p.

Mill Valley: Ed Subica, cf; Mike Wyman, 2b; Bill Clark, 1b; Bill Brody, 3b; Terry Jarcik, ss; John Odetto, lf; Jerry Daniele, rf; Fred Mack, c; Burch or Fraser, p.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

BILBAO, Spain — Luis Folledo, 161, Spain, outpointed Joe Quedrago, 157, Ivory Coast, 10.

GARVIN POUNDS TO THE GOAL!

Tim Garvin, speedy North halfback from Terra Linda, burst off left tackle and churned out of the grasp of a South tackler Thursday night to score the winning touchdown in the North's 25-23 All-Star game victory at Kentfield. Richard Conner of Marin Catholic (21) was unable to stop Garvin's three-yard plunge with 2:06 left in the game, while Rick Edwards (20) of North blocked at right. Garvin had scored the second North TD on a 50-yard run with a swing pass.

NATIONAL LEAGUE SCRAMBLE

Red-Hot Bucs Win 7th Straight

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pittsburgh is 4½ games ahead of St. Louis' 1964 pennant pace but the Pirates must add a leap to the Cardinals' hop, skip and jump strategy.

The Pirates kept the pressure on the top four contenders in the National League race last night, edging Houston 10-9 in 11 innings after staging a fantastic six-run rally in the ninth.

The victory, their seventh straight, kept the fifth-place Pirates 4½ games behind the league-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, who nipped Philadelphia 9-8, and moved them to within three of the other three contenders—San Francisco, Milwaukee and Cincinnati.

It was only one week ago that the Pirates were in sixth place, nine games from the lead. At that same time a year ago, the Cardinals were in fourth place, also nine games from the top.

But while the Pirates have rushed to within 4½ from the Dodgers, one week's play in 1964 found the Cardinals still fighting a nine-game deficit.

St. Louis' advantage over the Pirates however was its fourth-place standing. The Cardinals had only three teams to climb over — a hop into third place, a skip into second and a jump into first.

That type of cavorting, however, would leave the Pirates one place short. That's why they need a leap either before or after the other three moves.

Actually the Pirates have made quite a leap to get where they are. In the first six weeks of the season, they encountered a stretch in which they dropped 22 of 26 games and tumbled into the cellar.

But one 12-game winning streak and another seven-game string later, they found themselves resting in fifth place. Now, after slipping back to sixth and spending nearly seven weeks there, they stand ready to try and duplicate the Cardinals' feat one year later.

In other NL games San Francisco whipped New York 9-2, St. Louis edged Cincinnati 6-5 in 14 innings and Chicago stopped Milwaukee 5-3.

In the American League, Minnesota trounced Cleveland 7-0, Chicago nipped Boston 3-2 before bowing 6-1, Washington squeezed by Baltimore 2-1 in 10 innings, Kansas City beat New York 1-0 and Los Angeles trimmed Detroit 3-2.

Trailing 9-3, the Pirates exploded for six runs in the ninth inning on six singles, including a two-run hit by Andre Rodgers, plus a hit batsman and Donn Clendenon's sacrifice fly that tied it. Pittsburgh then won in the 11th on Bob Bailey's single, Mike Cuellar's wild pitch and another single by Rodgers.

Los Angeles' Don Drysdale won his 18th game, his first against Philadelphia in more than three years, but wasn't around at the finish. Lou Johnson rapped three hits and drove in three Dodger runs while Tony Gonzalez and John Callison homered for the Phillies.

Walks to Lou Brock and Curt Flood, and Ken Boyer's double off Bill McCool gave St. Louis its victory in the 14th inning. Cincinnati had tied it 5-5 in the seventh, scoring two runs on walks to Tom Harper and Vada Pinson and singles by Gordy Coleman and Frank Robinson.

The Cubs broke up a scoreless duel with Milwaukee with five runs in the fifth inning off Ken Johnson. Billy Williams provided the big punch with the fourth grand slam of his career. Ted Abernathy saved the victory after starter Bob Buhl gave up eighth-inning home runs to Felipe Alou and Mack Jones.

Heavy Weekend Schedule On Tap For Pro Gridders

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A major test of National Football League strength looms in Charlotte, N.C. tonight in the Washington Redskins vs. Minnesota Vikings exhibition, top game on a weekend schedule that has all 22 major league pro football teams in action.

It's the first meeting ever for the Redskins and Vikings, but it certainly won't be the last. In fact, many of the so-called experts are picking them to meet again this year on Dec. 31 in the NFL title game.

The potent young Vikings, just coming of age in this, their fifth year in the league, are 2-0 in exhibition play and have a preseason winning string of eight stretching back to 1963.

And Washington, long the Eastern Conference doormat, is on the upswing. The Redskins faithful are pointing to this season as possibly their best since the hey-day of Sammy Baugh. Some even pick the 'Skins to go all the way.

The long weekend got underway at St. Louis last night with the Cards coming from behind with a touchdown in the last two seconds to tie San Francisco 17-17.

Today's afternoon schedule had Chicago vs. Los Angeles at Nashville, Tenn., and New York vs. Philadelphia at Princeton, N.J. in the NFL.

The American Football League has all its teams in action tonight, with Denver vs. Houston at San Antonio, Tex., Buffalo vs. Kansas City at Wichita, Kan., New York vs. Boston at Norfolk, Va., and San Diego vs. Oakland at Portland, Ore.

In addition to the Minnesota-Washington clash tonight, the NFL offers Green Bay at Dallas and Baltimore vs. Pittsburgh at Alanta.

The only Sunday game has NFL champion Cleveland, unbeaten in three exhibitions, at Detroit, 0-2 in pre-season play.

Two games are scheduled for national television (CBS-TV) coverage, the Browns-Lions match tomorrow and the bears-Rams game today. Television time for today's game may be preempted by the return of the Gemini V astronauts.

Ron VanderKelen took the Vikings in to their first two touchdowns in the 35-21 romp over Philadelphia last week and Fran Tarkenton guided Minnesota to the other three in a highly impressive display.

The Redskins have yet to get fully sorted out — rookie of the year Charley Taylor still is bothered by an injury — but they have a 2-1 record, including last week's 13-7 decision over a strong St. Louis team.

Raiders Vs. Chargers In Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)— Portland plays host tonight to its first American Professional Football League exhibition game with the Oakland Raiders meeting San Diego's Chargers.

Both teams are 2-1 for the season. Oakland defeated San Diego 10-3 earlier this month.

Both coaches Sid Gillman of the Chargers and Al Davis of the Raiders indicated they would use their able regulars to start.

Speedy San Diego halfback Paul Lowe, hobbled by an injury last week, may be ready. He played college football at Oregon State. Another Charger local fans remember well is Rick Redman, the ex-University of Washington linebacker who had some of his best college games on the Multnomah Stadium turf.

Dave Grayson, Oakland defensive backfield man, played his college football at the University of Oregon.

Oakland will be minus four scheduled starters—tackle Dave Costa, quarterback Cotton Davidson, and linebackers J.R. Williamson and Clancy Osborne.

Game time is 8 p.m. A crowd of around 20,000 is expected.

Two Officials Are Named For East-West Tilt

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—New business managers for both the East and West squads for the 41st annual Shrine charity football classic at Kezar Stadium have been named and the emeritus group gained another pair.

Bert Jacobs, the executive director who took over for Bill Coffman after the last game, named Bill Stevens of San Jose to the job as manager for the East, and Bill Quayle for the West.

They succeed Babe Hollingbery and Andy Kerr who have been associated with the game since its early years. Both were named to emeritus positions, joining Coffman in that category.

Hardtops Roll In Petaluma

The Petaluma Fairgrounds will again be the scene of hardtop racing tonight at 8:15 with several Marin drivers expected to compete. Last week Mike Kennedy of San Rafael came back from a harmless flip during qualifying runs to win his heat and finish second in the semi-main event.

Jack Dempsey of San Rafael was seventh in the main event and Chuck Louwaert was ninth, while Jim Giubbini of Novato placed third in the fourth heat.

Tiburon Swimmers Win At El Cerrito

Californian Wins In Decathlon

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Quiet, bespectacled Bill Toomey of Laguna Beach, Calif., doesn't look the part but he promises to give the United States another world decathlon champion in the tradition of Bob Mathias and Rafer Johnson.

It's Toomey's personal goal, and Hungarians, who watched him win the gold medal in the World Student Games last night with a magnificent display of pluck, are convinced he'll make it.

"It's my ambition to break Chang's record," the 26-year-old high school teacher said today. "The decathlon is the step-child of track and field in America. A man never gets a chance to compete.

"I plan to stay in Europe this winter and train under Friedl Schirner in Cologne. He's one of the greatest. I hope to get the record and win a gold medal in the Olympics."

C. K. Chang of Taiwan holds the world mark of 9,121 points.

Toomey started out as a broad jumper, reaching 24 feet, eight inches when Canadian Bill Gardner convinced him he should try the decathlon.

In the pole vault, he took a spill and injured his shoulder. It seemed uncertain that he could throw the javelin, the next-to-last event.

He sought out a british doctor and received shots to kill the pain and he competed.

Toomey staged a spectacular kick and won the 1,500 meters in 4:26.7. That final race in the darkness of People's Stadium clinched the decathlon title with 7,566 points, a Student Games record.

The decathlon victory gave the United States a 12th gold medal.

U.S. Swimmers Unbeatable At Tel Aviv Games

TEL AVIV (UPI)—The record shattering United States swimming team, headed by freckle-faced Cathy Cole, ended swimming and diving competition on a perfect note yesterday while the American basketball squad rolled into today's semifinals at the seventh Maccabiah Games.

Miss Cole, a teen-ager from North Miami Beach, Fla., won two gold medals yesterday, raising her top-award honors to three and giving her seven medals. The U.S. won 14 of the 18 swimming events during the course of competition and captured every event it entered yesterday.

The little Floridian won the 100-meter freestyle in a record time of 1:03.4 and anchored the victorious U.S. 400-meter medley relay quartet, which copped the event in a record-smashing 5:00.2.

The U.S. cagers produced the largest victory margin in the history of the games when they drubbed an outmanned Venezuela team 142-42 after leading 70-22 at halftime.

THREE YOUNG HEROES

These three members of the Novato Little League All-Star team were heroes that helped get the team the state championship last week in Portland. Jack Burnam (left) scored the only run of the game against Covina of Southern California; Jeff de Ricat (center) got the hit that scored him, and Stan Ericksen pitched a no-hitter. The City of Novato is still talking about their state champs who will be feted by the Kiwanis and Lions clubs, chamber of commerce, and other Novato organizations. And the youngsters are eager to start on the banquet trail.

Mike Machette Wins Net Tourney Crown

Mike Machette of Belvedere was the lone Marin County winner yesterday in the finals of the Rafael Racquet Club junior tennis tournament.

Mike was the champ of the Boys 14 division, beating Chip Fisher of Palo Alto, 6-0, 4-6, 7-5.

The other Marin entrant in the finals, Darby Auerbach of Belvedere, lost to Candy Douglas of Santa Rosa in Girls 14, 6-2, 6-2. In Girls 16, Linda Hansen defeated Diane Brooks, 6-3, 6-0.

In other boys singles finals, John Penero of Stockton set down Bob Waldman of San Francisco, 7-5, 6-0 in the 16 age group, and Steve Cornell of Berkeley downed Bud Guion of Sacramento, 4-6, 6-1, 8-6, in the 18-year-old division.

It was a big day for Machette, the fine shotmaker from the Belvedere Tennis Club. He teamed with Bruce Kellock to win the Boys 14 Doubles championship.

Results of the doubles finals:

Boys 14—M. Machette and B. Kellock def. D. Chadbourne and D. McBride, 6-3, 6-3.

Boys 16 — S. Cornell and R. Cornell d. B. Guion and J. Penero, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3.

Boys 18—B. Guion and J. Penero d. J. Woolfson and J. Spiegel, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5.

Al Dark Gets K.C. Front Office Job

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Alvin Dark was hired as an administrative assistant in a surprise move last night by owner Charles O. Finley of the Kansas City A's, setting off a wave of speculation that Dark may eventually become manager or general manager — or both.

Dark's duties were expected to be outlined at a press conference late today. Finley refused to discuss it. The flamboyant owner was peeved that the story leaked out ahead of the press conference.

Finley's only comment was that Dark will be here. Dark gave up his coaching job with the Chicago Cubs.

It's almost certain, however, that speculation about the future role of the 43-year-old former San Francisco Giants manager will continue. It's bound to create added pressures for General Manager Hank Peters and Field Manager Haywood Sullivan. The move was a surprise to them.

Adding to the speculation was the history of Finley's managerial moves. He hired Ed Lopat as pitching coach in 1962 and Lopat replaced Hank Bauer after Bauer resigned near the end of the season.

Finley then brought in Mel McGaha, former manager of Cleveland, as a front office assistant and coach. McGaha replaced Lopat as manager after 52 games in 1964.

McGaha was fired this season after losing 21 of the first 26 games. Sullivan, 34, a former major league catcher, was brought in from the farm club at Vancouver. Since the All-Star game, the A's have a 22-28 record.

Peters, one-time A's farm director, replaced Finley's insurance Partner, Pat Friday, at the start of the season. Friday said he had to devote more time to his insurance interests.

Dark managed the Giants from 1961 to 1964, won the pennant in 1962, finished third twice and fourth once. He was a fiery competitor as a shortstop, batting .289 in 14 seasons with the Braves, Cardinals Cubs and Phillies. He was a football and track standout at Louisiana State.

TAR GRIDDERS WILL REPORT ON MONDAY

The College of Marin football Tars will report Monday and Tuesday for physical examinations and issuing of equipment prior to the opening of practice Wednesday.

Coach Dick Read plans to hold two practices per day through Sept. 10. He has scheduled an intrasquad scrimmage for next Saturday and game scrimmages at Diablo Valley College Sept. 8 and at Kentfield against Cabot College Sept. 11.

One-a-day-brand multiple practices will commence Sept. 13, the first day of school. The Tars open the season Sept. 17 at home against tough Menlo College.

Birds Eye View Of North East Marin

Sprawling into San Pablo Bay, this aerial photograph shows the heavily developed housing complex of Raphael Village. The rows of white rooftops are Quering housing, built by the government to accomodate the families of men stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base, shown in this photograph on the upper right. One end of the runway on the base is shown heading out towards the bay.

The clover-leaf interchange to the left of center is the intersection of route 37 with Highway 101.

Beyond this photograph to the left, Novato and Sonoma County stretch to the north.

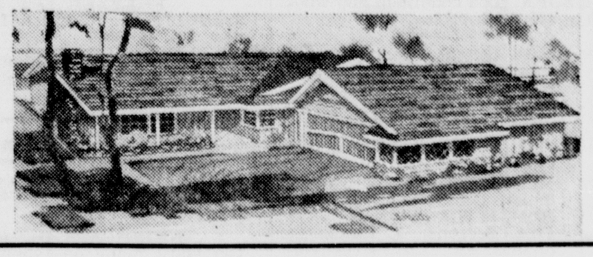

The serpentine body of water cutting west from the Bay is Novato Creek, which outlines the rapidly growing marina housing complex of Bel Marin Keys. The keys, one of the county's rapidly developing areas, "will eventually be developed for an all-waterways population of 16,000 people, representing a total investment of $100,000,000," said developer Jack West.

Fading into the horizon, above Bel Marin Keys, Petaluma Creek cuts northwest from the Bay, forming the line separating Marin and Sonoma counties. Ot the end of Route 37, before it crosses the creek, is the residential area of Black Point. (Photo by Aero Photographers)

Congress Due To Labor Past Labor Holiday

WASHINGTON (AP) — With only one week to go until the Labor Day weekend, it is apparent that adjournment of Congress will be delayed a good deal beyond that date.

At the moment, the major focus is on committees. Republicans on the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee have agreed to permit a final vote on repeal of state laws against union shop contracts by next Thursday.

An early vote is expected in the Senate Judiciary Committee to clear for floor action an amended version of the administration's immigration bill.

On the House side, principal attention at present is directed toward President Johnson's drive to convince 218 members — a majority of the House — to sign a discharge petition to force a vote on a measure granting self-government to the District of Columbia. So far 163 members have signed, and the administration appears to be having a tough time in attempts to get the needed 55 additional signatures.

Capital quotes:

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill.: "Another wheat sale to Russia will end all hope of free-world trade sanction against North Viet Nam, just as the wheat sale, in 1963 wrecked our trade blockade of Cuba."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk — commenting on statements by former German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer that the United States is neglecting Europe because of commitments in Asia: "If I were a European, I would pray that the United States would give a good deal of attention to the outcome of the war in the Pacific because they have a tremendous stake in it."

Capital footnotes:

A Senate subcommittee approves a $5.5-billion, five-year aid program for the nation's colleges that goes well beyond a bill already passed by the House. . .New York Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits hopes he can get together with GOP Senate Leader Everett M. Dirksen on a revised constitutional amendment on legislative reapportionment. . .Two associations of smaller banks urge the House Banking Committee to strengthen government controls on bank mergers, not weaken them.

Police Chief Muzzle Demanded; Councilman Blames Management

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A strong demand for an investigation of the Los Angeles Police Department and a rule to restrain Police Chief William H. Parker from making public statements has been issued by a city councilman.

The attack on the city's police department was made by Councilman Billy G. Mills yesterday in a letter to Mayor Samuel W. Yorty and Council Deputy U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey President L. E. Timberlake.

Yorty met yesterday with Clark in connection with other elements of the recent riots in south-central Los Angeles.

Clark was appointed by President Johnson to head a task force that will direct the application of funds for rehabilitation of the riot area.

Mills, in an apparent reference to Parker, asked the mayor to issue an executive order barring city department heads from making public statements without clearing them first with the mayor or a board of commissioners.

Mills' letter said, in part:

"It is quite apparent that heads of our departments have made statements, several of which have received nationwide attention, which have tended not only to confuse the situation here in Los Angeles, but also make it more difficult for us in government to proceed rationally from this point forward."

Mills also asked for an efficiency study of the police department by an independent firm, claiming that management inefficiency in the department contributed to the recent riot.

Clark emerged from a 65-minute meeting with Yorty, and said later that the meeting and an earlier conference with Gov. Brown "established liaison all along the line."

He told newsmen that cures, rather than causes, would be sought first by his task force. He said he and his assistants will work to coordinate city, county, state and federal aid for the region hit hardest by six nights of rioting, looting and burning.

City officials have estimated damage at $45 million in the area where 36 persons died.

JFK Relatives Not Pleased With Books?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., are reported to be displeased with some of the reminiscences published recently by aides of the late President.

Neither the President's widow or his brother have made any public comment on their feelings about the flood of magazine articles and books that recently have appeared. But they were understood to be unhappy about some of the revelations made by the authors.

Mrs. Kennedy's press secretary, Pamela Turnure, said the former First Lady has read sections of books by two of her late husband's White House aides, Theodore C. Sorenson and Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr.

Sen. Kennedy was reported to be displeased with Schlesinger's book and another written by Mrs. Evelyn Lincoln, who was President Kennedy's personal Secretary from his Senate days until his assassination Nov. 22, 1963.

It was said Sen. Kennedy objected to some of the details in Schlesinger's book. Another report is that he asked for and got a preview of "My 12 Years with Kennedy," Mrs. Lincoln's book.

Mariner Still Talks To Pasadena Labs

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — The Mariner 4 space-craft—which took the first "close up" pictures of Mars six weeks ago—continues to transmit signals to earth from nearly 170 million miles in space.

JPL spokesmen said they expect to lose the signal from Mariner about Oct. 1, but will try to resume contact in about 15 months.

Atom Treaty Balked?

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Cuba's refusal to sign an agreement outlawing the spread of nuclear weapons in Latin America may keep neighbor nations from supporting such a ban, it was reported yesterday. A number of countries, including Argentina, Brazil, Venezuela, Colombia and Nicaragua, may pull out of a 20-nation group considering a treaty to ban the manufacture, possession or use of nuclear weapons in Latin America.

MAYBE HE'LL QUIT TO GO TO COLLEGE

When Frank N. Chelgren of San Rafael was graduated from San Rafael High School in 1946, somebody misplaced his diploma.

He went back to the school several times during the next year or so to see if it had been found. It never showed up.

Chelgren later went to work for the city schools as a maintenance man. Yesterday, he was helping move some file cabinets when he uncovered several yellowed pieces of paper in a dusty corner.

He looked closely and saw he had unearthed six lost diplomas—one of them his own.

Fishermen Get Involuntary Tow To Sea

HUNTINGTON BEACH (AP) —Six fishermen looking for a catch got caught when a minesweeper's magnetic trolling cable latched onto their 30-foot cabin cruiser.

The Coast Guard said the craft, owned and operated by Wilford A. Newman of Buena Park, was towed several miles, stern-first, through the fog, before the USS Endurance realized she had a catch in coastal waters Thursday.

Newman said he futilely sounded foghorn, shouted, and even fired a rifle in trying to attract the minesweeper's attention, then managed to raise the Coast Guard on his radio.

The Coast Guard, while it notified the Endurance she had hooked a private vessel, told Newman to "stand by."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Special Coronary Care Centers Now Offered By Many Hospitals

VAN DELLEN

Many hospitals have coronary care units where those with heart attacks remain until the crisis is passed. It is widely know that 85 per cent of the fatalities from coronary thrombosis occur within the first week of the attack. In many instances the causes of death can be remedied provided they are detected immediately and treated on the spot. These specialized units are staffed and equipped to do this.

The departments usually are located near the emergency rooms and are designed to care for a minimum of four patients at one time. The basic design of the unit varies but in general the rooms are located around the nurse's station so she can see each patient at all times. An intercom system allows a two-way conversation relative to the patient's needs and complaints.

EACH PATIENT is connected by electrodes to a special bedside monitor that is mounted on the wall over the bed. The data is transmitted to the nursing station and irregularities in the pulse or electrocardiogram set off an alarm that alerts the nurse. The units also contain the equipment and medicines needed to correct other complications.

There are bedside outlets for oxygen and suction. A defibrillator is available to correct rhythmic defects that are serious and often cause death. An external pacemaker is a lifesaver when the heart stops beating and needs to be stimulated. Equipment for resuscitation also is available. Drugs to counteract shock and to raise the blood pressure are close by.

THE CORONARY care unit is only as valuable as the nurses and physicians using the equipment. They must be competent, vigilant, and trained to handle all emergencies. Not everyone with a heart attack can be saved, but there are enough survivals to justify the use of this special equipment.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

SUNLAMP USE

K.K. writes: A sunlamp was given to me and I wonder if it is of any health value or just a fad. Will this dry the skin? If it could be harmful, I will not use it.

REPLY

A good sunlamp mimics old Sol. It burns unless used according to directions. Tanning is possible, as well as all the bad effects of chronic exposure—pigmentation, dryness, wrinkling, etc. Hives or a rash may develop among those sensitive to ultraviolet. On the other hand, certain skin disorders, such as psoriasis and acne, may improve.

MONOXIDE FUMES

Mrs. C. writes: We live on a highway where the traffic is heavy. Do you think inhaling the fumes day and night could causes excessive fatigue?

REPLY

I doubt if the concentration of carbon monoxide in the air is enough to produce fatigue. The traffic officer on a busy intersection is in a different situation. He is in a congested area where the concentration may be high enough to cause symptoms.

MITTELSCHMERZ

U. V. writes: What causes abdominal pain midway between periods?

REPLY

An ovum ruptures from the ovary midway between periods. Pain (mittelschmerz) develops if the wall of the ovary is thicker than usual, causing a small hemorrhage.

AGE YARDSTICK

A reader writes: At what age is a person considered elderly?

REPLY

Anyone who is 10 years older than you.

The I-J's on the way—and so is he!

Perhaps it's the daily habit of delivering the news right to your home that gives I-J carriers, like him, a sense of direction in life.

Maybe it's the feeling of managing a route, where each boy is his own boss. Or the idea of collecting and banking money each month. Or maybe the channeling of energy into responsible effort . . . serving others.

It could be the solid training, too, which these boys receive from our experienced circulation advisors.

But one thing's certain: these boys develop AIMS and GOALS often a lot larger than the boys themselves. The aim to serve . . . the goal of a college education, for instance . . . with savings to attain it. They discover that delivering the paper on time, in place, can lead to the larger ends of independence and initiative.

A pretty good aim, don't you think? THERE'S A REAL FUTURE IN IT!

A School For Service Station Attendants

Young Marin Men Train To Meet A Pressing Occupational Need

By DON KEOWN

There's a lot more to being a service station attendant than just pumping gas.

That's what 14 young Bay Area men are learning in a training program being conducted by College of Marin, with the California Department of Employment as co-sponsor.

The six-week course for neophyte auto - service - station attendants is a Federal Manpower Development and Training Act program.

ONE DAY A week, the student-trainees spend four hours in a classroom on the College of Marin campus in Kentfield listening to lectures from their instructor, Charles Swanfelt, and participating in discussions of the material they have covered.

Four days a week, also four hours per day, they can be found at the Chevron service station owned and operated by their teacher, Swanfelt, at 1722 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Says Swanfelt of the course: "We teach them the business from the bottom up. We cover service station maintenance and deal lightly with the most essential bookkeeping. We show them tire repairing, lubrication, small mechanical repairs, the installation of mufflers, tailpipes, sparkplugs, shock absorbers, etc."

THE MARKETING of gasolines and oils comes in for a great deal of attention.

"But perhaps the most important of all," Swanfelt says, "is how to meet and serve the public."

Swanfelt explains: "Service is often the decisive factor in our business. The service station to which the motorist returns is frequently the one where he has received the friendliest treatment.

"I tell the trainees that it is important that they don't adopt the attitude that they are doing their customers a favor. It is the customer who is doing us the favor."

TEN OF THE 14 students come from Marin. The others hail from Vallejo and Oakland.

There is a substantial enrollment of young Negro men.

His students, Swanfelt says, take "a very serious attitude" toward their schooling.

Swanfelt believes that the service station field "is definitely one that will grow and expand. With more and more people moving into our area, there is a need for more service stations and for more trained personnel to staff them."

IN THE PAST, he says, service station operators have had to hire untrained men to work for them. He hopes his class will remedy that situation.

And the oft-expressed belief that there is a surplus of service stations in the Bay Area is not correct, Swanfelt asserts.

"Traffic has grown faster than gasoline stations to serve it," he declares.

Swanfelt is a veteran of the business who has never regretted his decision to make it his profession.

"I STARTED pumping gasoline when I was 9 for the late John Frustuck of Fairfax at his station," he recalls. "I liked to hang around there, anyway. So I helped out, mainly in filling radiators and tires, and he used to pay me four bits a day. That was pretty good pay for a kid in those days."

It was a liking for automobiles, Swanfelt says, that led him into the field to stay 17 years ago when, just out of service, he went to work as an employee of Dan Malugani at a Waldo Grade station.

Two years later, he started managing a station at the Black

MARIN CLEANERS Phone 454-4792 — Member N.I.D. of San Rafael, Bel Aire & Fairfax

"CONSUMER GARMENT PROBLEMS"

Be more careful of your clothes, warns the National Institute of Drycleaning. More than 10,000 garments were examined at the Institute's Textile Analysis Laboratory last year which were inadvertently ruined by consumers wearing them or caring for them at home.

Foremost among consumer-created clothing headaches were these four: Loss or change of color from cold wave solutions, caramelized sugar stains, damage from heat and pressure of ironing, and perspiration damage.

Cold wave damage is not a new problem. It's plagued the drycleaner for years. Many women, and some men, are simply careless when they apply home permanent waving and neutralizing solutions. Once in your clothing, these chemicals are invisible. Wtih the aid of time and heat, however, they'll permanently remove garment dye.

Tell your drycleaner when you spill or even suspect that you have spilled some of the solution. Professional first aid can save your dress.

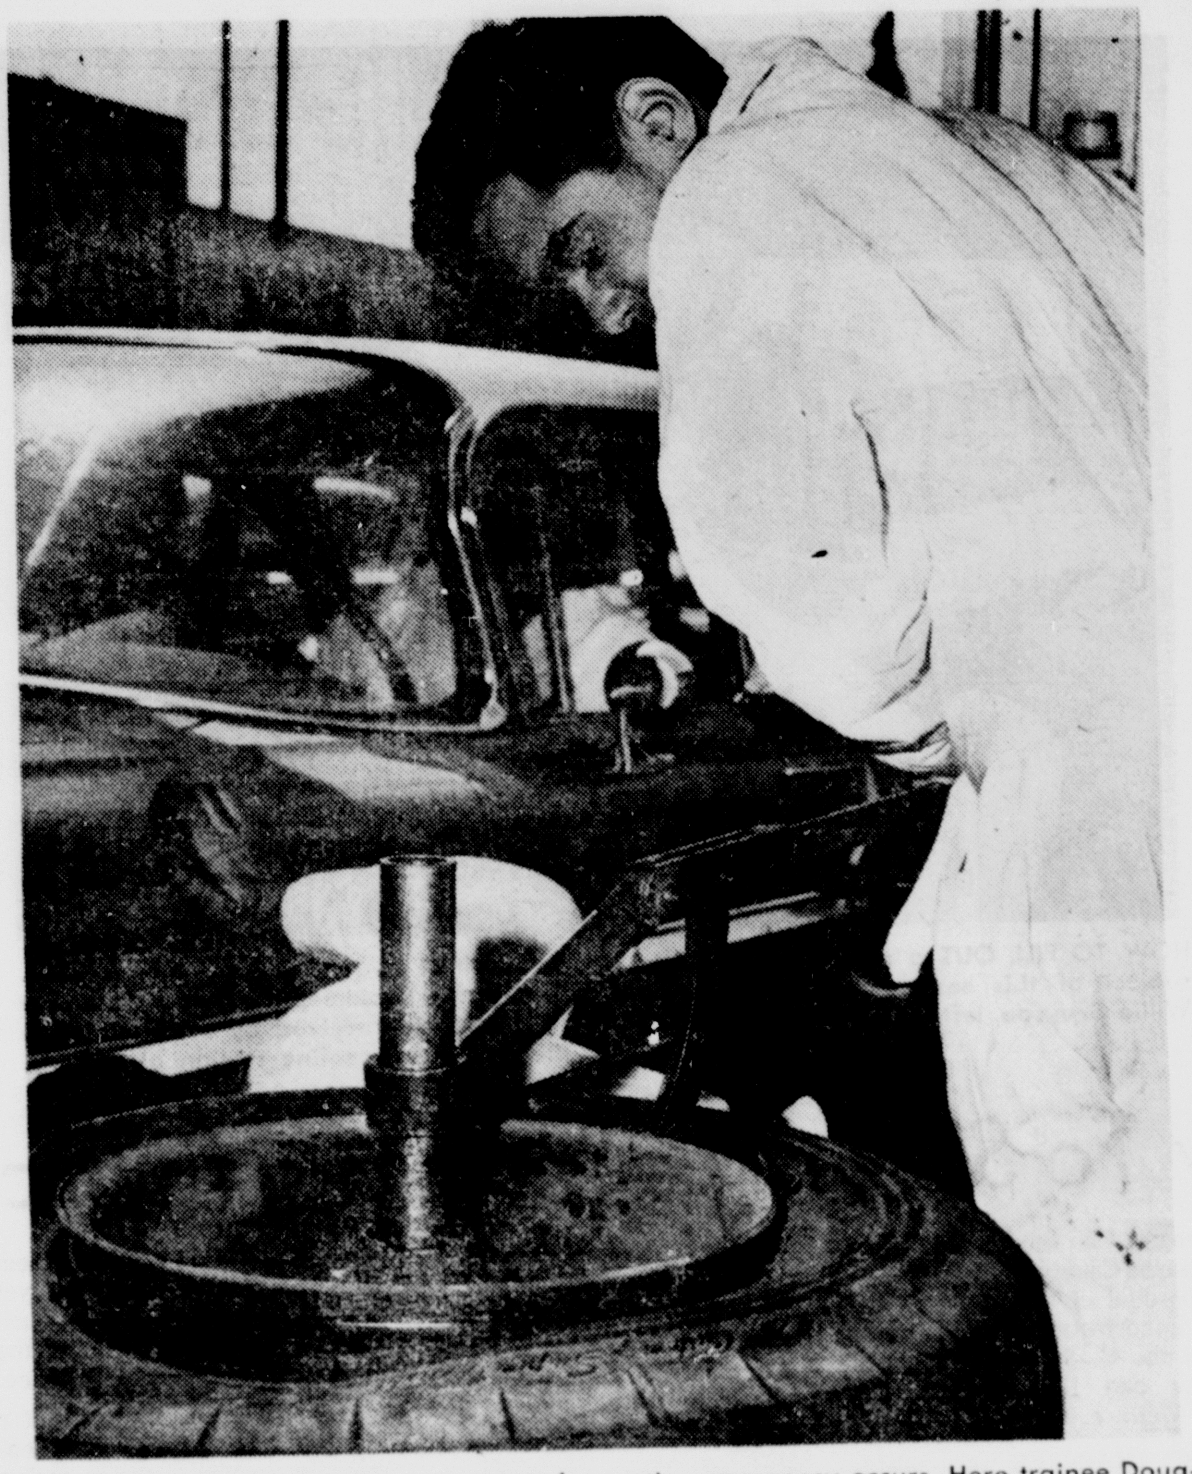

Caramelized sugar stains can also be permanent. These stains are caused by fruit juices, soft drinks, beer, and cocktails. When spilled, they disappear into the garment. Heat or slow aging will make the spilled substance reappear as a permanent brown stain.

This problem can also be avoided if you tell your drycleaner what happens when it happens.

HOW TO FILL OUT a repair order is the subject of th.is session between trainee Willie Grayson, left, and instructor Charles Swanfelt at Swanfelt's San Rafael station. Elementary bookkeeping methods are part of the course received by the students in the class for gasoline station attendants.

Point Cut-Off.

AND THEN ON Dec. 12, 1958, he obtained his own Chevron dealership in San Rafael.

"What I like most about it is the opportunity it affords me to meet people," he says. "Sales work appeals to me. You deal with the public firsthand, meeting a nice clientele, and it just makes you feel comfortable to serve them."

A busy gasoline station should sell anywhere from 1,000 to 3,000 gallons of gasoline, Swanfelt says.

"But on that, you only break even," he declares. "Gas just pays your overhead. For profit, you have to sell lubricants, accessories, etc."

BUT SWANFELT is opposed to the growing trend for service stations to handle products outside the automotive field.

"Then," he explains, "I think you are just taking it away from some other small businessman. They don't sell my gasoline. So I don't sell their products."

The job training program was initially proposed by the San Rafael office of the California Department of Employment, to fill, according to Ed Ayer, office manager, "an occupational need in Marin County."

Approval of the proposal and the authorization of funds came from the U. S. Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

THE TRAINEES were selected by the California Department of Employment office to represent a cross-section of interested Marin and nearby residents.

The current class is the second to receive the instruction and will complete the course next Friday.

Fifty per cent of its members come from "disadvantaged personnel groups," according to Ayers.

Employers interested in hiring graduates from the class are asked to contact Charles Truax at the employment office.

A THIRD CLASS is planned, with the starting date not yet definite. Men interested in such training should also contact the San Rafael employment office.

From such classes, instructor Swanfelt hopes, will come careers in service to the motoring public that will give these young men the same satisfactions and successess that he has experienced.

THE COLLEGE OF MARIN swimming pools have been a popular spot with Marinites of all ages this summer. In addition to a swimming class for adults conducted three nights a week with Peter Limm as instructor, the pools were open to the public until recently for just plain swimming, splashing and sunning fun Monday through Saturday during the day and on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. (Independent-Journal photos)

The College As A Recreation Mecca

Marinites Make Extensive Use Of New Facilities

One of the reasons for College of Marin's summer recreation program was, "to meet the needs of the adult and college-age community." "The high schools already take care of the juniors," according to Harry J. Pieper, head of the division of health and physical education at the college, "but their elders are sometimes overlooked."

One means of meeting the needs of the community started this summer with a seven-course summer recreation "curriculum" plus a recreational swimming program on the Kentfield compus.

The summer program enriches the classroom work the college offers to the community, the educators feel. While scholastic pursuits open new areas of knowledge to the student, the summer program is designed to add a greater dimension to the health and physical well-being of the adult community.

GYMNASTICS, women's personal fitness, women's and men's judo, tennis, golf and swimming were offered by the college this summer in a six-week course.

In addition to the courses, the new swimming pools were open to the public on a Monday through Saturday, 1 to 6 p.m. basis, and on Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9.

Both the adult program and the swimming have had high turnouts. The highest attendance in one day for the swimming program was nearly 400 people, with a daily average of more than 350.

The adult courses drew more than 200 people to the college, for both the day and evening classes.

MARIN COUNTY women have shown a particular interest in the program, and especially in two classes geared especially for them.

Mildren D. Wollet, instructor in the women's personal fitness course, feels the interest represented a "psychological breakthrough" for many of the women who enrolled in the class. They were admitting that they were out of shape, that they needed diet control and that they often could benefit from "redistributing some bulges," according to her.

In the class she stressed posture and walk and instructed the members in a set of daily exercises designed to help them keep the figures they regained. The evening class started with a hard set of basic exercises and calisthenics to "improve the circulation and improve muscle tone."

She made sure that it wasn't all hard work, however. The last half of the 90-minute class was used for light recreation, such as volleyball or swimming.

IN ADDITION to the personal fitness program for women there was a women's judo course, taught by James E. McGowan, who is the wrestling coach and judo instructor during the regular school year.

McGowan found that his class of 25 was not there so much for the self-defense aspect of the growing sport, but for the activity and its quality of being different.

Judo is often a hard, grueling sport, requiring agility and speed. Surprisingly the women took to it well. McGowan was pleased at how quickly his class learned, especially falling and throwing techniques.

McGowan also taught a course in judo for men, with emphasis on sport. He found that women learn how to fall and throw fastest, but the men began to excel when greater strength was required.

TWO OF THE seven classes, golf and tennis, while part of the summer program, were also included as credit courses in the college curriculum.

Calvin A. Riemcke instructs the students, college age and older, in the basic fundamentals of the two sports. Riemcke aside from the physical activity of the two classes, was trying

WITH THE AID of an automatic machine that serves the ball, Mrs. David Alexander practices her return of service in the College of Marin summer recreation course in tennis taught by Calvin Riemcke. It was one of seven such courses open to adults this summer on the college campus in Kentfield.

Better Health For Marinites Is One Objective Of Program to prepare the class members to be able to continue their play when they left the course.

Ex-students on the courts and fairways of Marin County attest to the success of his training.

If you take equal parts of balance, coordination and control, mix well and put them in a class of 40 people with the best equipment to be found, you would have the gymnastics course taught by Robert L. Justice.

JUSTICE'S COURSE proved to be the most popular of the physical education courses the college board offered. Requiring stamina and vigor, the sport was popular primarily with the college-age students, the only exception to the stress laid on the adult aspect of the program.

The final class in the program was Peter Limm's swimming instruction, offered three nights a week. Twenty adults gathered in or around the two pools for the training he offered. No one, beginner or intermediate swimmer, went without the proper instruction.

This was one of the points of the whole program: No one, adult, college student or youngster had to go without proper training.

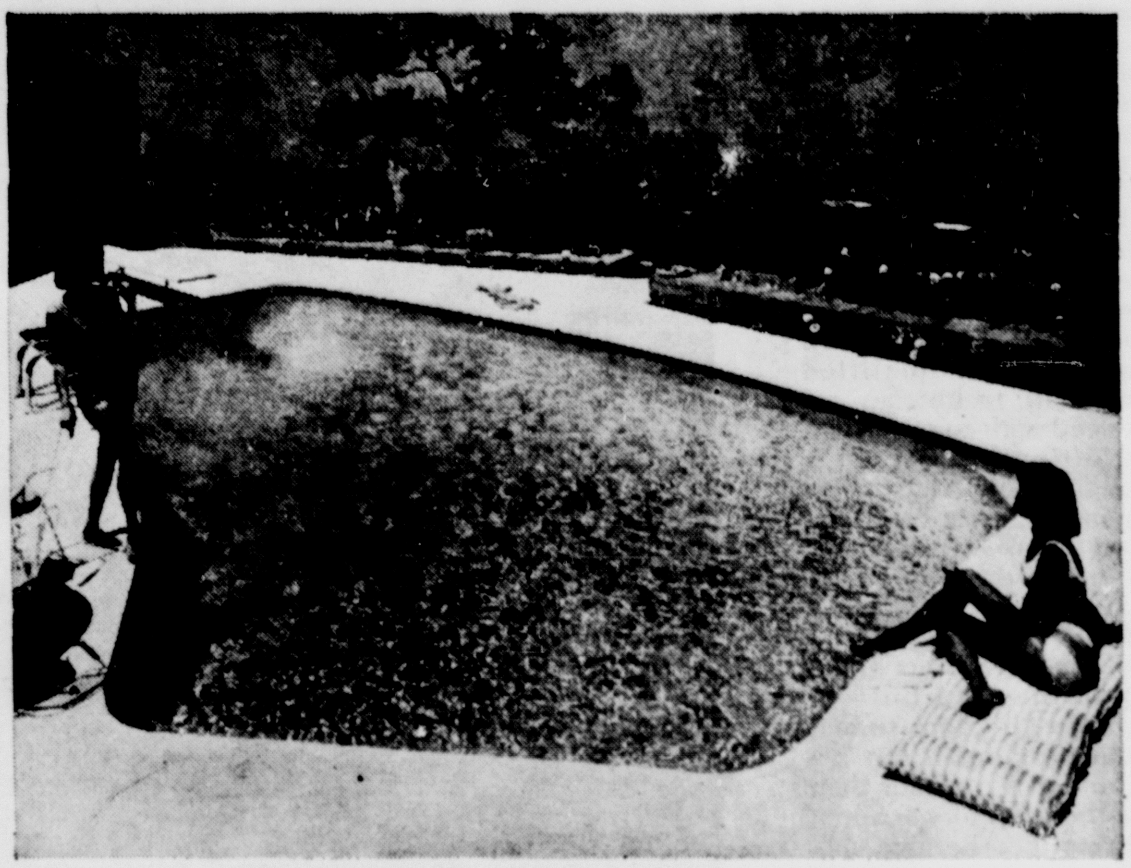

WITH A NEW building, new equipment and a new program, recreation-minded adults of Marin are expected to spend more and more time at the college.

Pieper likes to see the new complex used as much as possible by the community, but, "I would also like to continue with this type of controlled program rather than just throw the facilities open for general use. A class-organized program means that people are more likely to get something beneficial out of what we have here."

Stereo Hi-Fi

By C. J. Catania

Last week's article discussed the built-in adjustments to keep home music system components working at peak performance. WHERE DOES ONE TAKE HIS COMPONENTS FOR SERVICE?

Your components need the service of an extremely qualified and experienced laboratory technician. A person who does not have a thorough knowledge of all aspects of components; the tuner, the multiplex unit, the preamplifier, the power amplifier, the record changer, the tape deck or tape recorder, and the loudspeaker system, should not be allowed to make any adjustments to your precision components. A qualified journeyman technician experienced with components, in addition to having a thorough knowledge of all components, must be an expert on the use of laboratory type test instruments. If instruments are not used properly, the indications that may seem correct to the inexperienced technician may be guiding him so that he actually detunes the circuits under test rather than peaks them up to maximum performance. Believe me, this is a very common occurrence when quality units get into the hands of the inexperienced serviceman.

It takes elaborate instruments to do precision work. A qualified service shop does not justify whether a unit is good or bad by listening for distortion or for bad sound. No, none of us are that good with our ears. In a qualified service shop, all measurements and testing are done with the appropriate instruments and not left to one's judgement. An amplifier is checked for inter-modulation distortion by sending a complex but precisely defined signal through the unit under test than actually measuring the amount of distortion at various operating levels with a meter. The stereo separation on an FM Stereo unit is not checked by listening to the left speaker then the right speaker. It is tested with the use of a Multiplex Generator, which is a miniature FM Stereo Broadcasting station under the serviceman's direct control. He injects a signal into the left channel and none into the right channel, then by using an oscilloscope to view the signal, and a meter to measure the signal he can accurately determine how much separation exists and can proceed with proper adjustments.

WHERE DOES ONE FIND A QUALIFIED COMPONENT SERVICE SHOP? Come to an organization like ours that specializes in servicing components. This is not a sideline with us. A future article will tell you about our Service Department.

DORIS MORRISON was schooled in landscape and figure painting, but now devotes herself exclusively to abstract art. Eventually, she says she will return—at least, part way—to her earlier, more traditional painting. Her abstracts are currently being shown at the Torrance Gallery in San Anselmo. (Photo by Ken Molino)

Why One Painter Turned To Abstract Art

Doris Morrison is an artist who began as a landscape and figure painter, but turned to contemporary abstract work.

And she says: "I will probably eventually return to landscape and figure compositions."

But Mrs. Morrison adds: "When I do, there will be an improvement in my work because of the years I have spent exclusively on abstract composition, abstract expressionism and action painting.

"THERE WILL be a spontaneity, an emotional quality, a better handling of all the elements of good painting and design.

"The experimentation with abstract color will have made its contribution. And I shall always do some abstract and even non-objective painting."

Torrance Gallery in San Anselmo is currently showing Mrs. Morrison's abstract work.

A Ross resident, Mrs. Morrison studied at California School of Fine Arts, Honolulu Academy of Art, and the Cleveland Art Institute.

MOST RECENTLY she studied printmaking at College of Marin.

Her first exhibitions were at the Cleveland Museum of Art, followed by shows in a number of midwestern and eastern galleries and with traveling exhibits.

She has also shown extensively in the West since 1956. Following her current showing at the Torrance Gallery which continues through September, she is scheduled for an exhibit at the Lebaudt gallery in San Francisco.

She is active in the Marin Society of Artists, the San Francisco Art Institute, the East Bay Artists' Assn. and the San Francisco Women Artists, and her work is included in numerous collections throughout the country.

SHE HAS taught at Dominican College, and has had private students, both in Marin and in the Midwest.

Of the long standing controversy, abstract vs. representational art, she says: "In the beginning of art education most students do very detailed work. For instance, a landscape painting student may render what he sees before him. He will possibly paint every blade of grass.

"But the longer he studies, the more he leaves out. What each one of us leaves out is the important thing—the result of personal vision.

"THE MOST important thing about a successful painting is its unity, and, if realistic, its underlying abstraction . . . Back through the ages of art history you will find the great work has a marvelous underlying abstraction."

Abstractions and non-objective art are not new, she asserts.

And she says that even while she was training at the Cleveland Institute of Art in traditional, conventional, academic painting, "I never admired photographic representation except perhaps the perseverance required to attain the amount of skill it represented. I was and am interested in design—shapes, lines, masses, light patterns, textures, colors, forms, emotions."

WHEN SHE taught at Dominican College in 1956, she recalls, "half my students hated non-objective art and half of them hated representational art."

She concentrated, she says, upon demonstrating the validity of both approaches to art to the disbelievers.

"Before the end of the term," she declares, "the ones who hated all but representation were doing abstractions, and those who thought they did not like landscape and genre painting were appreciative of the good in that field."

It is her own appreciation of the good in both fields, Mrs. Morrison adds, and her conviction that they need not be irreconcilable opposites, that will eventually, when she is ready, enable her to reverse the switch she once made from the more conventional painting to abstractions—although she won't go all the way back.

Marin's School For Helicopter Pilots

Men And Women Master The Whirlybird With The Help Of Expert Instructors

There is no reason why any person of normal health cannot become proficient as a helicopter pilot, says Robert L. Peterson of Ross.

That is the premise upon which American Helicopters Corp., of which Peterson is president, functions.

And so far, the thesis has been borne out by the steady growth of the concern.

American Helicopters Corp. began to take shape back in late 1963 and early 1964 in the minds of two Marin men, Peterson and Ronald E. Winkler of Novato.

"IT BECAME apparent to the two of us that there was a very pressing need for a professional helicopter pilot training school in Northern California," Peterson says. "At that time, there were helicopter operators who did charter and contract work, and who would accommodate students with lessons as a sideline. But there was no firm whose primary purpose was to train pilots."

American Helicopters Corp. moved into that void on Jan. 25 of this year when, preliminary planning completed, it began operating on facilities at and grounds adjacent to the Garden Motel at 8141 Redwood Highway, Novato.

At the outset, it was a two-man (Winkler and Peterson), one-aircraft (a Hughes Trainer helicopter) operation.

NOW THERE are 12 stockholders working for the corporation. And the air fleet has grown to three Trainers with a fourth machine, this one a five-passenger business helicopter that will be available for charter and for rent by graduate pilots, as well as for use in instructing advanced students, on order.

"The main aim of our enterprise," Peterson says, "is to develop pilot-users, rather than a demand for charter service."

Classrooms and offices are located at The Lodge, part of the motel facilities.

MOTEL UNITS provide handily accessible lodging for resident students. And helicopter parking is provided on grounds immediately adjacent to the motel.

They Learn In The 'Copters And Classrooms

Students At Novato School Keep Pace With Air Age

CHIEF PILOT Ronald E. Winkler of the American Helicopters Corp. school at Novato, explains the function of the main rotor head of one of the Hughes Trainer whirlybirds to student Art Olson, enrolled for commercial pilot training. Winkler is one of the co-founders of the corporation and a vice president.

for landing and take-off "pads" in San Rafael on Francisco Boulevard were approved recently.

PRINCIPAL officers along with Peterson are Gerald F. Thomas of Greenbrae, vice president; Harold F. French of Terra Linda, secretary, and Winkler, vice president and chief pilot.

At the outset, both Winkler and Peterson could fly the helicopters, the latter having learned from the former, a veteran flight instructor with considerable experience. But the division of responsibility agreed upon was that Winkler was to handle the teaching, Peterson the administrative duties.

One requirement of the by-laws is that all new additions to the firm's payroll must also be stockholders.

ANOTHER IS that all must have a helicopter pilot's rating.

The stock ownership requirement has resulted in a high degree of enthusiasm among the personnel, Peterson says.

The helicopter school has been approved by the Department of Education, State of California, for all necessary courses for private pilot, commercial pilot and flight instructor ratings.

The Federal Aviation Agency has also approved the curriculum.

SO FAR, THE school has graduated three private pilots, three commercial pilots and one certified flight instructor who have received their FAA ratings.

The private pilot rating requires 40 hours of instruction in the air plus considerable ground school work.

Peterson points out that turning out a helicopter pilot "requires no more and perhaps less hours than it does to turn out a qualified automobile driver." The training, he adds, is roughly comparable in difficulty to that given a private airplane pilot.

THE HELICOPTER or airplane piloting student is spurred on faster than the automobile driving pupil, Peterson believes, by a greater challenge—"by the feeling that what he is trying to do is a greater accomplishment."

While students may begin their schooling at an earlier age, they cannot receive their licenses until they turn 17.

Among the students so far have been two from out-of-state who have resided at the motel while receiving their training. One hailed from Virginia, the other from Arizona.

Most of the students have been businessmen of this area who have seen an economic advantage in learning to pilot helicopters.

PETERSON foresees additional out-of-state enrollments for the future. "Outside of the military, we operate the only full-time school in the country available to potential helicopter pilots," he says.

What kind of work is open to men who qualify as professional commercial pilots?

Peterson names a few: Forestry service, the construction fields, fish spotting, rescue and cargo work, charter and air taxi operations, piloting for the major helicopter airlines. There are, he adds, many more opportunities.

NOR HAS interest been restricted to the men. Already the school has had two women among its students—Becky Belveal of Terra Linda, who is aiming at an instructor's rating, and Ann Jakunes of Corte Madera, a secretary who feels a helicopter pilot's credentials would enable her to be doubly beneficial to some commercial firm as an executive secretary and pilot for the executive staff.

Peterson estimates that there are some 600 potential helicopter pilots in this county. On the other hand, he says, there are not more than a dozen outside his staff now qualified and only five helicopters stationed in Marin, three of which are the property of his concern.

The county's weather is almost ideal for helicopter flying, he adds.

"ONLY GROUND fog and very severe winds can keep a 'copter on the ground," he says. "I would guess that you can fly 350 days of the year in Marin."

Of the helicopter picture generally and his firm's aspirations for branches eventually across the nation, Peterson says: "We are going to see more and more helicopters in the air. But the real secret to the entire future of the industry is in the location of more in-town or close-to-town heliports and helipads so that the helicopter can combine the functions of the air taxi and the airplane."

THE HELIPAD differs from the heliport, he specifies, in that it is just large enough for one craft's ingress and egress—40 by 40 feet. The facilities can be located either on ground surface or on a rooftop.

Helicopters, Peterson believes, are now at about the same stage as was the automobile industry in 1907, with a similar growth ahead. "Vertical take-off aircraft is the only answer to many of our future needs," he says.

These needs are certain to increase as metropolitan and suburban centers become more congested, he adds.

IN CONJUNCTION with the newly approved "pads" in San Rafael, American Helicopters Corp. has added its twelfth employee, Robert Noland, former owner of Speedwing Aviation in Phoenix, Ariz., with more than 10,000 hours of air experience time to his credit.

Peterson says his concern has had no problem in Marin with complaints concerning the whirlybirds and their noise.

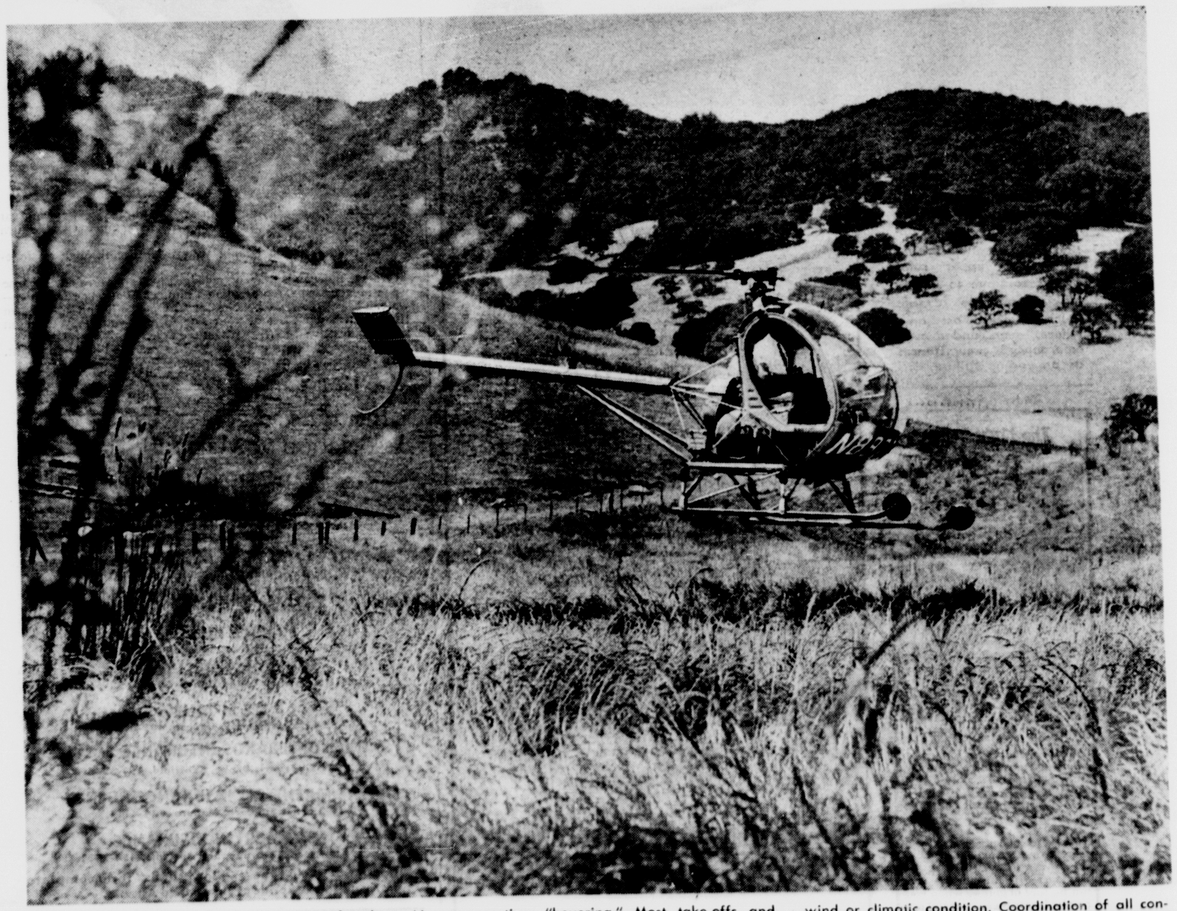

"That, I feel," he says, "is because we try to show consideration and to be good neighbors."

MARINITES, he adds, are generally air-minded, possibly due to the location of Hamilton Air Force Base in their midst.

"Thus, they are more aware of the importance of keeping up with the air age, and appreciative of what we are trying to do."

CABIN PROCEDURES are reviewed by student Art Olson while the instructor and chief pilot Ronald Winkler checks just how well the pupil has absorbed the instruction he has received to date. The photograph gives a striking example of the excellent visibility available to occupants of the helicopter.

IT'S PRACTICE, practice and more practice for the student pilots at American Helicopters Corp. With instructor Ronald Winkler beside him, Art Olson of Novato practices "hovering." Most take-offs and landings begin or end with this maneuver. A pilot learns to hold his machine almost stationary in any wind or climatic condition. Coordination of all controls is vital. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

Epic History

NEVER CALL RETREAT by Bruce Catton, Doubleday, 469 pages, $7.50. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

"Never Call Retreat" completes Bruce Catton's three-volume "Centennial History of the Civil War."

In "The Coming Fury" and "Terrible Swift Sword," Catton brought the South to secession, opened the war and carried it through the battle of Fredericksburg—what might be called the romantic period of the war. "Never Call Retreat" takes it through the period of all-out war, stripped of romance, to the surrender at Appomattox and the assassination of Lincoln. This is the period marked by Sheridan's devastation of the Shenandoah Valley, by Sherman's march to the sea, by a federal siege gun set up to shell the homes of Charleston; and, politically, by the Emancipation Proclamation and the first tough talk of "reconstruction."

Catton has moved rather more swiftly through the war's last two years than he did through its first three. In doing so, he has treated very briefly some of the episodes which have had fullest treatment in other histories—including some by Catton himself. Gettysburg, the Wilderness, the Siege of Richmond are passed over lightly.

The grinding struggle between the Army of Northern Virginia under Lee and the Army of the Potomac under Grant goes almost unnoticed.

As in earlier volumes, Catton is fond of saying of some important battle or political decision that things would never be the same again because of it. He does this rather too often—although probably always with truth.

These, however, are minor faults in an epic history.

"The Centennial History of the Civil War" captures the feelings of the time — of the soldier, the general, the politician, the civilian, and even to some extent the Negro. It paints on a large canvas, without ignoring necessary detail. It grasps the nobility on both sides of the struggle, but does not overlook the seaminess on both sides.

All in all, ex--newspaperman Catton has produced one of the greatest of Civil War histories—perhaps the greatest for the general reader. There have been many excellent historians of the Civil War, but few indeed who could write like Catton.

Serious study of D. H. L.

Scholarly Criticism

DOUBLE MEASURE, A Study of the Novels and Stories of D. H. Lawrence by George H. Ford, Holt, Rinehart, and Winston, 222 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Jean Langham.

On the jacket of "Double Measure" we read that the book "may well persuade the unpersuaded to reconsider"—and your reviewer must admit this to be true, albeit begrudgingly.

It is most difficult to break apart a prejudice to writing in the Freudian symbolist mold and enjoy a serious study of such stuff as D. H. Lawrence is made of. But Ford's credentials and abilities are obvious and there is nothing spurious or invalid about this type of solid scholarly criticism.

Only after an honest appraisal of the author's thesis in the light of some knowledge of Lawrence's work and other criticism of it (and this is where the general reader and casual scholar has problems) can the other kind of judgment be made or can we relate Lawrence's assertions to other areas of knowledge.

Ford explores several dominant themes in part one of his book, in particular, Lawrence's concern with the powerful counterforces (Double Measure) at work within each individual and his or her relationship with another individual. Thus the personalities in his fiction are simultaneously attracted and repulsed by each other so that darkness and light, beauty and ugliness, love and hate exist at once within a given relationship. Another theme investigates man's intrinsic aloneness which does not disappear, except temporarily, in even the most intimate associations.

In part two he studies two master novels, "The Rainbow" and "Women in Love," and here the reader finds himself grappling with such symbols as stagnant pools of water, dark cathedrals, and stamping wild stallions followed by a brilliant discussion of "Women in Love" as a war novel in which, by the way, war is never mentioned.

In this area of scholarship in which a new study of D.H.L. appears every three months, Ford's book will no doubt be acclaimed. Long may he publish, thus never to perish!

Plea For Peace

TEN CRISES IN CIVILIZATION by Stanton A. Coblentz, Follett, 302 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Lee Cadwallader.

Mill Valley poet and historical writer Stanton A. Coblentz outlines 10 crises, "all of cataclysmic rather than a merely political nature . . . (that) threatened a complete overturn of a social order or the obliteration of a civilization" to shape his plan and plea for peace.

He starts with wars of the Greeks and Persians, then proceeds with chapters on the defense of Rome against Hannibal, the Punic Wars, Netherland's triumph over the 16th century oppression of Spain, the French Revolution, the First World War, the Russian Revolution, the Second World War, the Sino-Japanese War and the Chinese Civil War.

He concludes that, "unless we are to be plunged into periodic crises, we must establish new concepts of world relationship."

"The first information that Man's intelligence must provide him is that certain historic conditions, under which civilization has hitherto survived, have ceased to apply among the nations. It will not suffice to note, as we have done, the place of warfare in all great crises, including those of our own century. We must go on to a still more fundamental observation: That man, by his scientific inventions, has outlawed war as an instrument for the settlement of major international disputes."

I hope I'm wrong in predicting that Coblentz will lose the attention of the "Hawks" the minute they read what he has to say on nationalism. At any rate, the "Doves" can be assured that on a scale from "visionary" to "practicability," this book is a step in the right direction.

Spanned By Man

THE WORLD'S GREAT BRIDGES by H. Shirley-Smith, Harper & Row, 250 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Richard Lyttle.

This revised edition updates Shirley-Smith's fascinating history of bridge building—from the crude log across a creek to the soaring suspension span across the Verrazano Narrows.

Line drawings help explain the bridging achievements to the non-engineer and the many photos contribute greatly to the account.

The book offers a fine stimulant to the road or rail traveler, making him more conscious of bridges as a testament to the engineering skill of man.

First Of Three

O BEULAH LAND by Mary Lee Settle, Ballantine Books, 352 pages, paperback, 75 cents. Reviewed by Barbara Hosmer.

First of a trilogy that includes "Know Nothing" and "Fight Night on a Sweet Saturday," now also in paperback, this novel of the pioneers who braved the wild forests of what is now West Virginia takes place on the eve of the American Revolution.

Settlers with diverse backgrounds found themselves a long way from their London prison and Virginia tidewater days as they fought Indian and forest to gain a toehold on new land. The story follows three of the settlers and the succeeding books of the trilogy carry on with their descendants through Civil War and modern times. The book is well constructed and presents a seemingly realistic portrayal of pre-Revolutionary life.

BRUCE CATTON has completed his three-volume "Centennial History of the Civil War" with the publication of "Never Call Retreat." The final volume covers the closing, decisive years of the struggle between the states, and its aftermath.

FAMILY FUN OUTDOORS by Russell P. MacFall, Thomas Y. Crowell Co., 212 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Richard Lyttle.

MacFall, who specializes on the outdoors, has covered a broad field in this small but well illustrated book.

Boating, horseback riding and cycling are described for the beginner, but MacFall seems to be at his best in describing more studious endeavors such as rock collecting and bird-watching.

His tables on rocks and minerals provide a good guide to the beginning collector. The drawings of common trees of the forest also provide a handy guide.

Because of its wide scope, however, the book touches only briefly on its many subjects. Anyone wishing to delve deeper should refer to MacFall's bibliography and other sources which he takes pains to list.

The book includes descriptions of outdoor recreation areas of the nation which give a fine reference for any family planning a camping vacation.

Woman Who Worked For JFK Reveals Kennedy She Knew

By DON KEOWN

MY TWELVE YEARS WITH JOHN F. KENNEDY by Evelyn Lincoln, David McKay Co., 371 pages, $5.50.

THE WILD CASCADES: FORGOTTEN PARKLAND by Harvey Manning, Sierra Club, 128 10½-by-13½-inch pages, $20.

The torrent of hurried biographies, photographic portfolios and collections from John F. Kennedy's statements and writings that appeared almost immediately after the assassination is now being followed by a spate of publications of more personal revelations from staff members and other associates of the late President.

Still ahead for the future, no doubt, is yet a third and most important wave—the definitive evaluations of the Kennedy administration to be rendered by historians and political science scholars from the vantage point of longer perspective and greater objectivity.

If the current crop is not the most important, it does have its value, more in pointing up the extraordinary personality and ability of Kennedy himself than in illuminating his policies and his administration.

Evelyn Lincoln has written such an intimate study of the man she idolized and served for 12 years as personal secretary, first as congressman, then senator and finally as President.

"My Twelve Years With John F. Kennedy" spotlights many facets of the unique Kennedy personality, both in his relationships with governmental and political figures and with his own family. The characteristics that the American public found so appealing are all there. So are others not so well known to those who did not enjoy the close and constant relationship that Mrs. Lincoln had with Kennedy.

John F. Kennedy emerges as a demanding, often impatient "boss" who was at the same time a kind and considerate one. As an idealist who could upon occasion submerge his ideals temporarily to practical political considerations. As a tireless, sometimes tension-ridden worker with a saving ability to relax and even to nap. As a man with an awesome capability for recalling appropriate quotations and stored-away scraps of information who, paradoxically, could be extremely careless and forgetful.

He was a mature and forceful man, yet given to boyish enthusiasms. And while generally of a pleasant and even temperament, he could give way to temper and to gloom.

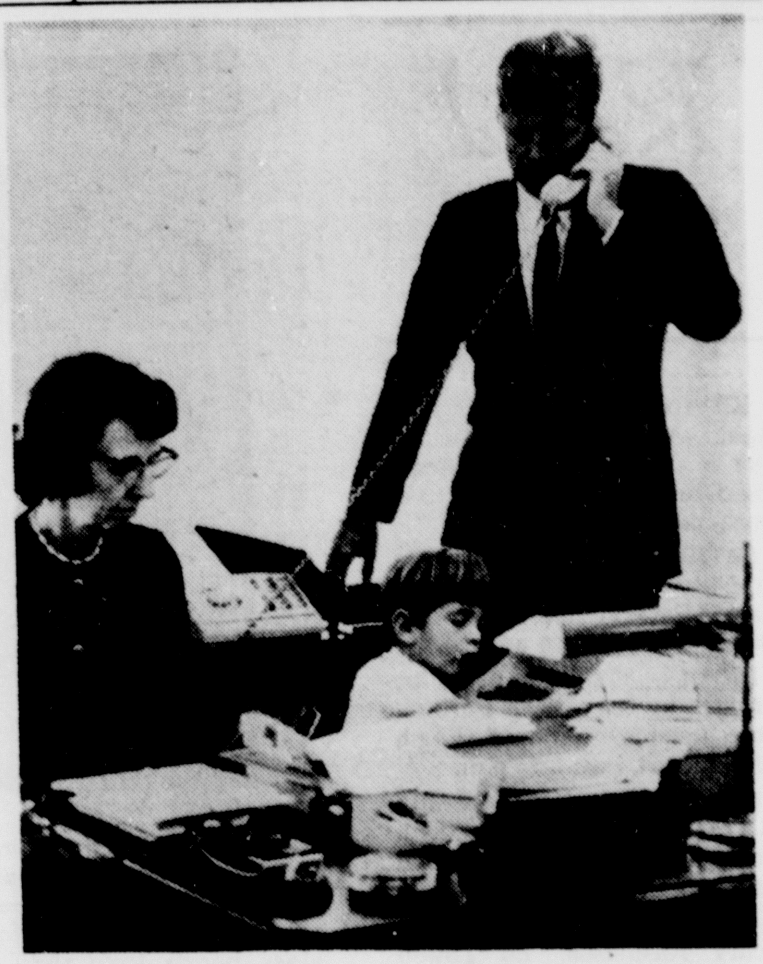

The most appealing Kennedy of all is the one that Mrs. Lincoln pictures so well in the warmth of his family relationships, enjoying his children to the fullest, brimming with pride in and affection for his beautiful wife, loyal to and full of confidence in his parents, his brothers and his sisters.

Mrs. Lincoln was more a sometimes spectator to than a participant in policy-making. She therefore cannot really tell the story in detail of how the New Frontier was shaped. But she can cast a great deal of light upon its formation, and she does.

She makes no pretense of writing objectively. She is, as one would expect, a Kennedy partisan, pure and simple. So much so that her resentment is apparent when she recalls how Estes Kefauver dared to oppose and beat back the challenge of the younger Kennedy for the Democratic vice presidential nomination in 1956. She is forgetful of the facts—that it was Kefauver who took to the convention by far the more impressive record of public service, and that the abortive Kennedy bid was based largely upon the antagonism of racists and big city political bosses for the liberal Tennessean, support quite at odds with JFK's professed idealism.

In her desire to preserve every recollection of the man she so much admired, Mrs. Lincoln is sometimes inclined toward treasuring and repeating trivialities. In her efforts to impress upon her readers the tremendous dimensions of the presidency, she overindulges in the technique of following Kennedy on an engagement-by-engagement basis through some of the more significant days of his administration, well after her point has been made.

"My Twelve Years With John F. Kennedy," nevertheless, casts a great deal of light upon the White House, and even more upon its late occupant. It will add to the sense of loss of the American people while strengthening their affection for their departed leader. It makes for fascinating reading.

AT HER DESK in the President's office in the White House, where she served as personal secretary to John F. Kennedy, Evelyn Lincoln frequently found herself playing hostess to the Kennedy children. Here little John Jr. gives Mrs. Lincoln a helping hand with her deskwork while his father conducts a telephone conversation in the background. The photo appears on the jacket of Mrs. Lincoln's book, "My Twelve Years With John F. Kennedy."

THE SIERRA Club, with camera and printing press as weapons, has gone to war again on behalf of a project it considers vital to the cause of conservation.

"The Wild Cascades: Forgotten Parkland" is another magnificent book in the tradition of earlier masterpieces such as "The Eloquent Light" and "Island in Time."

It covers in larger and richer format the same geographical grandeur described and depicted earlier by The Mountaineers of Seattle in their "The North Cascades."

In this 11th volume in the striking Sierra Club exhibit format, these dedicated protectors of Western America's scenic and wildlife wealth are out to save the primeval Cascades in the state of Washington, just beginning to feel the real hurt of the lumberjack's axe and the miner's explosives.

An introduction by Mr. Conservation, Justice William Douglas, sets the proper tone. The text is by mountaineer-naturalist Harvey Manning, who also wrote the earlier "The North Cascades" and who performs once again with a simple, moving sensitivity. And the photos, 96 in black and white, 19 in color, the former, to us at least, no less awesome than the latter, represent the work of such skilled and creative nature photographers as Clyde Thomas, Philip Hyde, Ansel Adams, David Simons, Bob and Ira Spring, Robert Frenkel and John Warth.

Accompanying the photos are simple identifications of the place depicted and appropriate quotations from the work of the late and gifted poet Theodore Roethke. There is also a large foldaway map of the Cascade Range.

Sierra Club executive director David Brower has again performed as editor and guiding spirit of the venture. And the platemaking, printing, binding and design are all of an extraordinarily high standard.

It is an eloquent, persuasive plea for a Northern Cascades national park. And an absolutely breathtaking tour of unspoiled grandeur.

Through September, the huge book is available at a special $17.50 price.

GEORGE KAUFMAN, former teacher of creative writing at Sir Francis Drake High School and now a Berkeley resident, has combined two of his earlier published novels, "The Paper Train" and "The Loves of Dana," for a second printing in a single softcover format. Offset-printed, the book sells for 50 cents. "The Paper Train" first appeared in 1961, "The Loves of Dana" in 1964.

EDITED BY Bob Warren and the Model Railroader staff is "764 Helpful Hints for Model Railroaders" (Kalmbach, $2). Contents are culled from the popular "Kinks" column of the magazine for rail hobbyists.

Sleuths & Suspense

NOTHING IS THE NUMBER WHEN YOU DIE by Joan Fleming, Ives Washburn, 190 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

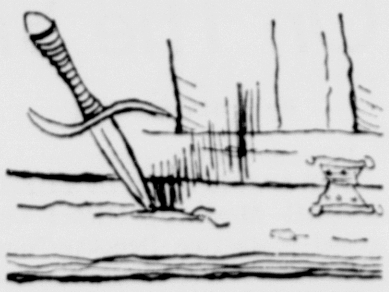

Joan Fleming introduced an interesting detective character, the Turkish scholar Nuri Bey, in her award-winning "When I Grow Rich." Now she brings him back to do battle again with a narcotics ring in "Nothing Is the Number When You Die."

An old romance that flares anew gives Nuri an added incentive to find a missing youth before the dope dealers, also hot on his trail with murderous intent, can do so. The scene shifts from Istanbul to Oxford and London, England, and then back to Turkey for a rather macabre conclusion.

Miss Fleming seems to have a bit of trouble with her nationalities in this one, either exaggerating or employing erratically slang and other useful characteristics. And there seems to be a certain looseness in the plotting.

Nevertheless, the pace is fast, the international background intriguing, and the battle of wits between villains and Nuri exciting and suspenseful.

It may not be a really solid crime novel. But neither is it a dull one.

A FEW DAYS IN MADRID by Audrey and William Roos, Charles Scribner's Sons, 255 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Here is yet another suspense novel of espionage with a European background. And it is a better than fair one.

Young Kay Taylor's assignment to escort an American schoolboy to Madrid to meet his father seems like a wonderful travel opportunity. It develops into a nightmare when the boy disappears and Kay finds herself in the center of a deadly game of international intrigue and an assassination plot.

There is a nice touch of romance. And the husband and wife team of authors use the Spanish background to good effect.

No Le Carre or Lyall this. But it's fast moving, exciting and entertaining enough to hold your interest all the way.

THE UMBRELLAS OF CHERBOURG—Music by Michel Legrand—Catherine Deneuve/Nino Cartelnuovo/Anne Vernon, et al—Phillips Connoisseur Collection Stereo PCC 616:

As with most film sound tracks, you should see the film first. Then this will have your eyes watering up every time you hear the haunting main theme of this charming and touching musical film.

Every word of dialogue is sung in the film, to music that ranges from swinging jazz to rich strings-with-chorus textures.

In order to produce this stereo-disc, the sections of the complete score most important to telling the simple story of two young lovers were joined together in two 27-minute segments, one to a side. A libretto is bound into the beautifully-designed double-fold album. Since the French used is kept very simple and straightforward, here is a wonderful opportunity to brush up on that rusty French and have a captivating experience listening at the same time.

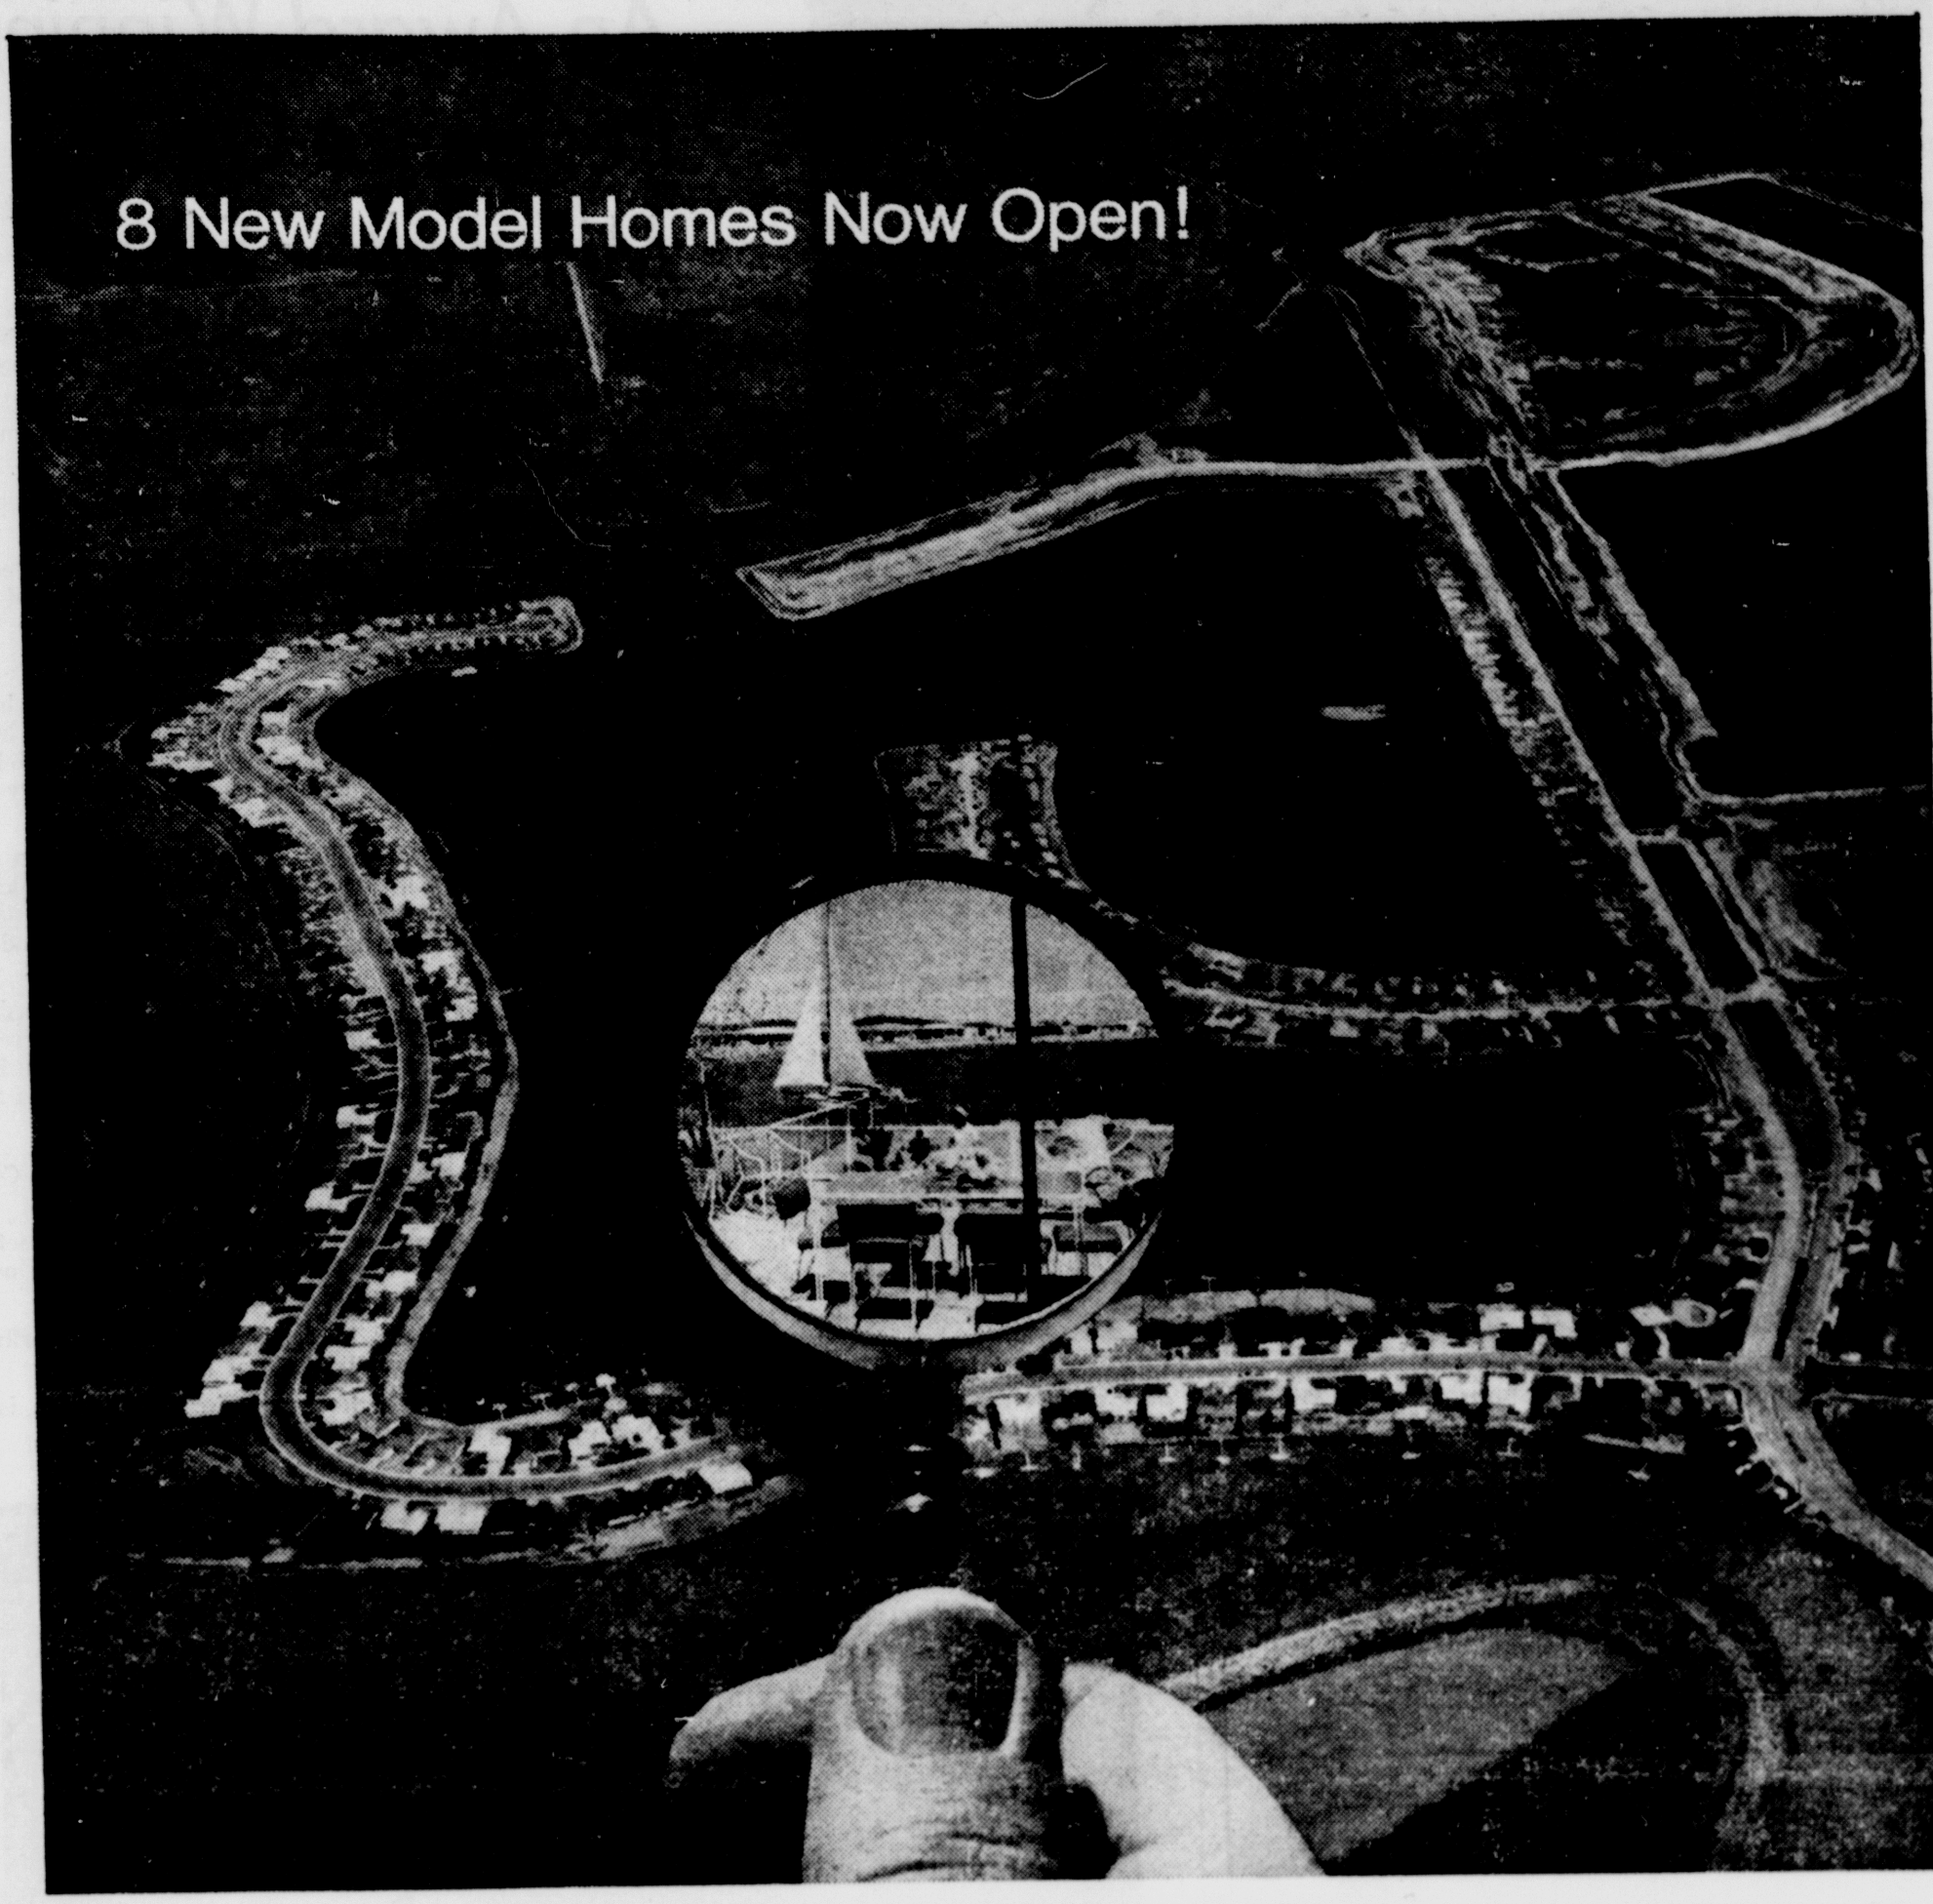

The stereo is muddy on the orchestra and backgrounds, but the vocalists stand out clearly in the foreground.

THOSE MAGNIFICENT MEN IN THEIR FLYING MACHINES—Music by Ron Goodwin, conducted by Ron Goodwin—20th Century Fox 3174:

This is the authentic, original soundtrack from "Those Magnificent Men in their Flying Machines"—or how I expanded 50 seconds of corny Mitch Miller-type march music into a 26-minute soundtrack album which the picture promoters could cover front and back with ballyhoo about the picture and still get people to pay five bucks for. Forget it.

WOODY ALLEN, VOLUME TWO—Colpix Records 488:

The writer and "Heidi"—reading comic star of "What's New, Pussycat?" has encored his first hilarious comedy record with this second even better one. His pose of the fresh and innocent young man to whom everything that happens is a huge surprise carries off convincingly, and allows for hanging on some gags which would probably be very unfunny with most comics. The story about the moose is a prize.

MARIN LIVING

An Award-Winning Residence On A Mill Valley Slope

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Miller of 410 Monte Vista, Mill Valley, has won attention and admiration well beyond the boundaries of Marin County and the Bay Area.

It has been awarded a national award of merit from the American Institute of Architects.

And it has been featured pictorially in the May, 1965, issue of House and Garden magazine.

The American Institute of Architects award was accepted on behalf of the architectural firm of Marquis and Stoller of San Francisco at the institute's national convention in Washington, D.C. this summer by Claude Stoller of Mill Valley.

LOCATED ON A steep and wooded hillside, the Miller house features striking high peaked roofs over the living room and kitchen that make possible unobstructed views of the slope and keep the interior of the home sunny and light in spite of the heavy surrounding foliage.

The house has a lower deck that is being used now as a children's play area (the Millers have three children), but which is designed in such a manner that it may be converted for the future expansion of the house proper as the children grow older and the family needs change.

The firm of Marquis and Stoller has won numerous awards in national and regional architectural competitions and is currently engaged in the design of the U.S. Consulate Building in Dacca, Pakistan, as well as the Marin Co-operative Center and the Rodef Sholom Sunday School in Marin County.

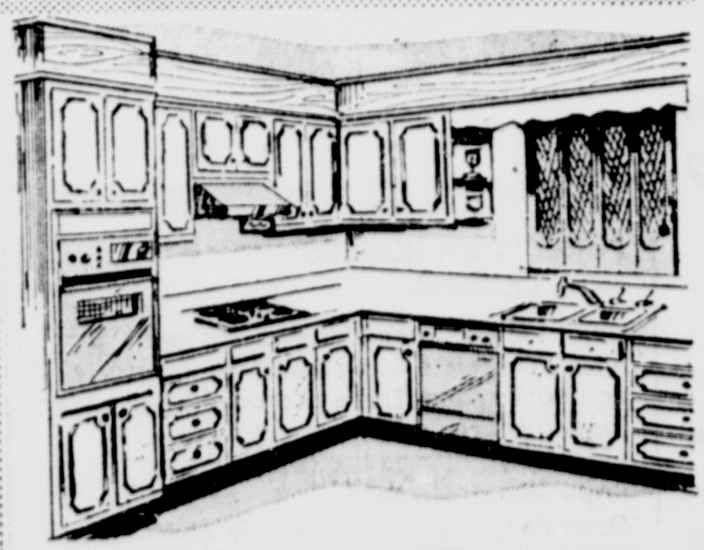

THEY ARE ALSO the designers of the St. Francis Square Cooperative Apartments in San Francisco.

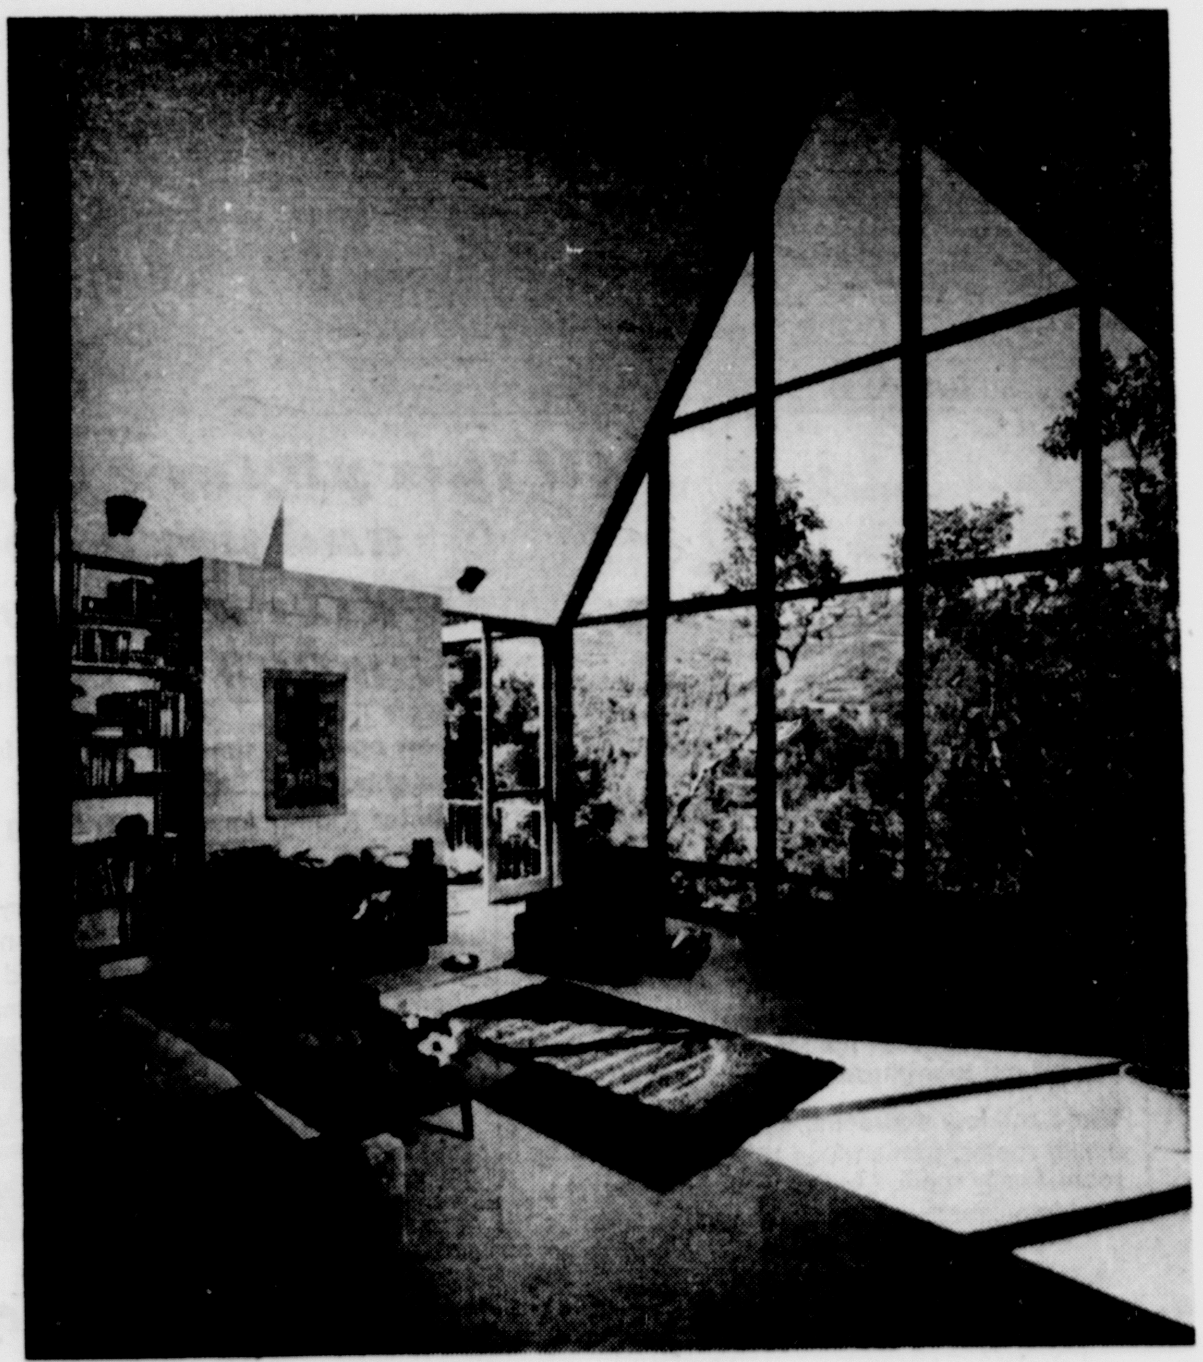

Stoller is acting chairman of the Department of Architecture at the University of California in Berkeley and served for a number of years on the Mill Valley City Planning Commission.

Robert Marquis, of Bolinas, is vice president of the Northern California Chapter of American Institute of Architects.

Eugene Miller, the owner of the award-winning residence, is an engineer with Harding Associates of San Rafael.

Here's An Easy Way To Finish Plywoods

Handyman's Page

Just Affix Tape To Edges And You Have Done The Job

Because plywood is made of thin sheets of wood glued together under heat and pressure, its edges have a lined or seamed effect.

When the plywood is to be used in a project where the edges will be hidden, nothing more is required than a coat of sealer, a precaution necessary to prevent the entrance of moisture. But when the edges will be visible, some effort usually is made to cover or disguise them.

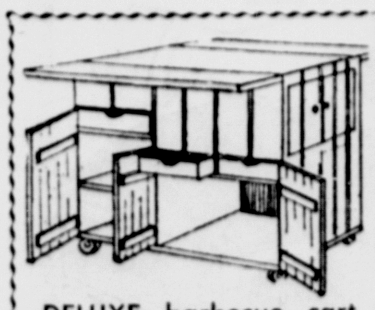

The home handyman has a number of possibilities open to him. He can paint the edges, bevel them, cover them with wooden strips or special mouldings, apply laminated plastic, use aluminum or stainless steel channels, or attach what is called plywood tape.

The big advantage of the tape —actually rolled-up wood veneer —is that it can be obtained in matching or contrasting colors. These colors are not painted on, but are the real shades of the wood from which they were stripped. Thus, if you are using birch plywood, you need only to ask for birch tape (or wood trim, as it sometimes is called) to be sure of a reasonably good match.

The same kind of finish can be used on the tape as on the remainder of the table, bookcase, cabinet or whatever.

Plywood tape is attached with ordinary wood glue or one of the various forms of contact adhesive. In the first case, clamps must be used to keep the tape firmly against the edges until the glue has set. In the second, it is necessary only to apply the cement to both surfaces, wait a few minutes, then join. However, contact cement grips instantly and will not let go, so it is important that the tape be pressed against the edges with great care.

The tape, by the way, can be cut easily with ordinary scissors.

The 'Mum For Autumn Color

Nothing says "autumn" in house or in garden like great, rich-colored drifts of chrysanthemums.

If you've already planted enough of these fall beauties, you have nothing to do but keep them watered, fed at frequent intervals, and sprayed if necessary. Taller growing kinds should be tied securely to stakes.

For extra-large flowers, be sure to disbud your plants, leaving only one bud per stem. Don't feed plants after flower buds begin to show color.

IF, HOWEVER, you neglected to plant your 'mums earlier this year—or if you didn't plant enough of them—don't despair. Nurseries now have a large selection of bushy chrysanthemum plants in one-gallon cans, fresh from the growers and ready to set out now.

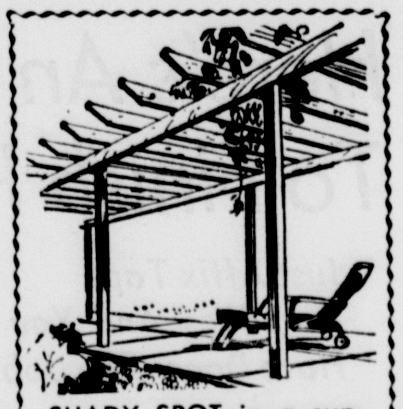

These well-branched plants have been specially grown to give you the maximum of bloom, and since chrysanthemums never object to being moved, they will settle into your garden and keep on growing vigorously for a spectacular fall show.

For the best display with your 'mums, it is best to concentrate on only a limited number of varieties, then put in enough of each kind to make an effective planting. There are too many flower forms and colors in chrysanthemums to list them all here, and your best guide to selecting the best ones for a long succession of bloom is your local nurseryman.

JUST REMEMBER that you can choose from a color palette that goes from clear white to deep mahogany, and ranges through soft yellows, pinks and reds, oranges and bronzes. If you want curling, fishhook petals, ask for spider chrysanthemums; and if you want the full, round enormous exhibition blooms, just ask for the large-flowered type and your nurseryman will help you choose among the different forms here.

If you would like to cascade your 'mums downwards, this is the time of year to buy them already trained that way.

Plant your chrysanthemums in a sunny spot in well-prepared soil, making sure you work in a liberal amount of peat moss if the soil is too sandy or too heavy. A sprinkling of bone meal just before planting is advisable.

SHADY SPOT in a sunny yard can be yours with a simple arbor built over a section of garden path. Arbor uses four-by-four posts, doubled two-by-sixes for beams and one-by-eights for trellis top, with ends cut in a decorative outrigger. The arbor can also support grapes or a flowering vine for added cover.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- The new Madonna Lily bulbs are available at many nurseries and should be planted now while they are dormant. The improved white variety produces fragrant, chalice-like flowers three to five feet tall in June. Plant bulbs in a sunny location with only one inch of soil covering them.
- Dahlias should be watered regularly and deeply. Be sure to stake tall plants to keep them from toppling under the weight of their blooms.
- Set out Michaelmas Daisies from plant bands or cans now and you'll have a profusion of daisy-like flowers from late summer through fall. Choose from low, mounding types for edgings, medium-sized border plants and tall (to six feet) background ones. Best known for their soft, violet-blue shades, but available in pink, white, rose or dark red.
- Water lawns regularly and keep up light feeding. It will be as handsome in September as it was in spring.
- You can keep your summer annuals blooming well into October if you keep them well watered, remove faded flowers and spray them if necessary. Fuchsias and geraniums in full bloom can be brought in for quick color now and will keep flowering for months.
